New York, October 11.—(United News.)—Somewhere out over the Atlantic ocean tonight Ruth Elder, the flying flapper, was assumed to be hurling through space at 100 miles an hour toward Paris and the glory of being the first woman to span the Atlantic by air.

With a Coney Island doll under her arm and a smile of confidence on her pretty lips, the 23-year-old beauty contest winner began this most hazardous of all trans-Atlantic flights from Roosevelt field at 5:04
p. m.

Barring accidents such as have brought death to no less than six of her predecessors, Miss Elder at midnight would have covered more than 700 miles of the perilous 4,000-mile flight.

Late into the night land and ship radios were flashing out the American Girl's call letters, WPAG, in hope of picking up news of her progress.

Although the plane's radio has a sending radius of only 25 miles, its receiving instruments are capable of picking up messages from stations thousands of miles away.

New York, October 11.—Ruth Elder, bravest of the fair and fairest of the brave, hit the Lindbergh trail for Paris today at 5:04 o'clock.
The flying flapper, with a Coney Island doll in her arms, and a laugh on her lips, slipped into her plane and zoomed away to the eastward with little fuss. Her last words were:
"I depend upon God and if He wants us to get there we will get there."

She clapped a grease-stained leather helmet over her brown bobbed curls as her co-pilot, Captain George Haldeman yelled, "Contact!" The prop whirled. The motor roared.
Ruth Elder craned her neck from behind Haldeman to watch their giant

New York, October 11.—(AP)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy against Bert Acosta, a pilot who ac-filed in federal court in Brooklyn today by Thomas B. Mulroy, of New York.

Mulroy's petition said Acosta borrowed $2,200 from him two years ago and never has paid the debt. The petition gave Acosta's address as Garden City, N. Y., and his occupation as a professional aviator and airplane mechanic.

DID YOU

Lindbergh because a lifetime of preparation found him ready for the supreme test. All of us, by work and thrift, should prepare for our own opportunities.

SMITH WILL WIN PRESIDENCY RACE,
GERARD PREDICTS

New York, October 11.—(AP)— James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany under the Wilson administration, predicted today upon his return from a trip to Europe that Governor Smith of New York will receive the democratic national nomination for president—and will be elected—and that the republicans will nominate Vice President Dawes.
"I am sure," Gerard said, "that Hughes could not carry New York against Smith. I think there is absolutely nothing against him but his efficiency. But we know that the republican party won't nominate Hoover because they do not like an efficient bird."
However, the former diplomat added, "I think that at the last minute the republican party will nominate Dawes."

$3,000,000 LOST
AS GREAT BLAZE
HITS OCEAN CITYHouses Are Dynamited in Order to Save New Jersey Resort From Destruction by Fire.

Ocean City, N. J., October 11.—(AP)—
The fire which ravaged Ocean City tonight was reported under control at 11 o'clock tonight. Houses on Central avenue were dynamited in order to check the onrush of flames. The loss was estimated at $3,000,000.
Mayor Joseph Champion stated that an explosion of gasoline in the boardwalk garage, when the flames comsumed that structure, was responsible for the rapid spread of the fire.
Shortly after 11 o'clock the blaze had eaten its way to the Planders hotel, at Tenth street and the boardwalk, and many firemen were set to work in an effort to save that structure, the largest hotel in the city.

The blaze started about 7 o'clock and firemen summoned from half a dozen nearby seashore resorts believed they had it well in hand when it had spread to the district bounded by Seventh and Tenth streets and the boardwalk and Wesley avenue. At 10 o'clock the blaze shot back into Central avenue, one block north of Wesley, and attacked the Central Avenue Public school.
A large number of hotels, moving picture houses, shops, rooming houses and private homes were destroyed. At 10:30 p. m. Mayor Champion announced that the loss up to the hour would exceed $2,000,000 and that the blaze still was spreading.

Mayor's Home Destroyed.
The mayor's residence was among those destroyed. Other buildings burned included the Normandie hotel, which was valued at $600,000; the Strand hotel, Arcadia cafe, the Hippodrome, Normandie office building, the Strand, Colonial and Colony motion picture houses, the Sesside and Shelton baths, Crowe's green houses and a score of shops along the boardwalk. Many other buildings were badly damaged.
Most of the structures were of frame construction.
School boys, organized into small battalions, rescued several thousand dollars' worth of valuable merchandise from burning stores, piling the goods along the entire beach front. County detectives and state and city police were placed on guard over the goods.
The Taxmore hotel was among the nearly two score structures destroyed.
Of the hotels destroyed, only the Strand was occupied and the guests made a hasty exit.
An unidentified man was killed when his automobile was struck at Ridley's, near May's Landing, by one of the pieces of fire apparatus that had been summoned to aid in fighting the fire.

Lindy Rides Through Atlanta's Cheering Thousands

NORRIS PROMISED
SUPPORT IN RACELeading Progressive Senators Ready To Aid Him
if He Enters Presidential Primaries.

Washington, October 11.—(AP)— While Senator Norris, of Nebraska, is hesitant about entering the presidential primaries in the western agricultural states, those participating in republican conferences here were unanimous today in a declaration that they would be glad to support him in any state in which he will consent to have his name used.
The declaration was contained in an authorized statement issued after a conference participated in by Senators Borah, of Idaho; Nye and Frazier, of North Dakota; Brookhart, of Iowa, and Norris. However, it was stated that no action had been taken and none would be taken "until a larger attendance is had, if at all, as to candidates for president."

No Third Party.

It was stated emphatically that the conferences had nothing to do with a third party movement; that those participating were proceeding upon the theory that "the republican party is a national party and not an eastern party."
"We proceed upon the theory that if we make our wishes known in a proper way and with sufficient force," the announcement said, "they will be respected and considered by the party.
Ours is a pretty large country and it now extends from the Mississippi to the Pacific."
"When eastern senators and representatives confer upon matters of peculiar interest to their portion of the country, such as protection to their manufacturing interests and railroads, they are still regarded as regular and sometimes referred to as active and patriotic. When western senators and representatives confer with reference to matters which particularly concern their portion of the country, they seem to be regarded as irregular, insurgent and radical."
"Now all of that arises out of the disposition among a few of our eastern friends to assume that republican policies can only originate within certain territory and republican principles can emanate only from certain quarters. We do not desire to intrude unnecessarily upon this idea.
But we feel that a reasonable degree of solidarity with reference to our work and the work of the nation will help for a better understanding."

Discuss Western Question.

At the outset of their pronoun-ment the five senators said the purpose of the conference was to discuss the western question.

the date set for her trial. A report today reached the office of Prosecu-

Mrs. Lillendahl's attorney, Charles

"There has been no other counsel

Los Angeles, Calif., October 11.—(AP)—
The American Federation of Labor convention went on recess today as favoring modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of wholesome beer.
The action was taken in adoption of a resolutions committee report which favored concurrence in the executive council's recommendation for such liberalizing of the prohibition law.
A deafening roar of "ayes" was the response of the delegates to the call for a vote. This brought the convention to a halt. William Green, who had been wished the labor men would vote "as loud and strong" on other resolutions. A burst of hearty applause was rejoinder of the delegates.

Paris, October 11.—(AP)—The lat-

Franco-American exchange on French tariff rates, presented to the foreign office this noon, appeared to have produced a favorable impression here today.
It was especially agreeable to the Quai d'Orsay that Washington gave strict instructions to prevent revelation or comment on the text of the document, as there is a tendency in French diplomatic circles to fear difficulties when newspaper polemics are made possible by the publishing of the details of such negotiations.

KITE SHARES AIR

CROWD A THRILL

The masses were waiting at Candler field, every eye attempting to penetrate the grey mist that blanketed the sky, so that the owner might be the first to give the cry.
A speck was sighted, and "Lindy!"
Lindy! there he is, swept over the field and back. One of the waiting planes left the field to greet the hero for whom every eye was tensed. The plane was up but a moment, the pilot alighting disgruntled.
"It was only some kid's kite, a big black thing with silvery edge and a long tail. Some youngster wanted to share the air with Lindy today, I guess. Sure fooled us for a minute though."

were nominated as candidates for mayor, returns from today's municipal mayoralty non-partisan primary

Smith and Lodge led the five other candidates by substantial majority, increasing as returns came in. The election occurs November 8.
Mayor Smith conducted a vigorous campaign for reelection while Lodge consistent with his policy of "let the office seek the man," made no speeches, platform or promises.

Atlanta's warm and cordial wel-

More than 300 of the city's most of the marvelous achievement of Lindbergh in flying alone from New

They told of the pleasure of the city

TRACK LOWERING BIDS OPEN TODAYContractors From Many Parts of Country Here
To Make Estimates on Work.

Bids for lowering of the railroad tracks over which the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts are to be constructed will be opened at noon today in the office of William A. Hansell, chief of construction, it was announced Tuesday.

Members of the bridge committee of city council will be present.
Contractors from many parts of the country are in the city for the opening of the bids and Walter F. Shultz, of Memphis, architect and engineer, is registered at the Ansley hotel.

Lowering of the tracks must be completed prior to construction of the bridges, and railroads have made their contributions with the understanding that the city must have enough money to carry the work to uninterrupted completion before any work is actually begun.

Steps to break the deadlock between the Georgia Power company and the bridge committee of city council as to terms on which the company would contribute $400,000 towards erection of the improvements are expected to be taken this week by Mayor I. N.
Ragsdale.

The company insists that it should be guaranteed that it will not, in the future, be forced to compete against what it terms "unfair jitney and bus competition." The bridge committee has balked at ratifying this agreement, although company officials have declared they will make the $400,000 de-donation and if council abrogates it, will ask the city to repay $200,000 of the original contribution.
Under the agreement council can ask for bids but could not let any contract until sufficient funds to complete the work are available. The contract for lowering of the tracks will not be let today, it was said Tuesday night.

Bearing the good will and best wishes of hundreds of thousands of Atlanta people, Colonel Charles A.
Lindbergh, America's intrepid hero of the air, will leave here early Wednesday morning in his plane, the "Spirit of St. Louis," for Spartanburg, S. C., after enjoying a day of triumph never before bestowed by the people of this city on any visitor.

With the daring flier, whose feat of crossing the Atlantic electrified the world, will go memories of a crowd that stretched 15 miles from Hapeville to the Veterans' hospital; of a day of plaudits which came spontaneously from an admiring and enthusiastic people and of a day of orderly conduct which he, himself, declared was the best order maintained in any of the 75 leading cities he has visited on his present tour.

Behind him the famous flying ace of aces left a message, a simple message but one that bristled with progress. He told the people to turn their thoughts to the practical side of aeronautics. He told them to do practical things, to build airports and to patronize the air lines that are established for commercial purposes. He held out the hope to any progressive city that it can get ahead in aerial transportation by providing properly equipped airports and landing fields and by providing commerce for the lines that will use them. He predicted that commercial airlines soon will be in operation in the skies like commercial transportation lines are in operation on the earth.

Never before in Atlanta was such a reception as the one accorded Lindbergh. The courageous flier, piloting his "Spirit of St. Louis," glided to the landing field at Hapeville in what local air pilots said was one of the prettiest landings they had ever seen.
He was cheered by thousands of men, women and children who gathered in the field that totaled in the neighborhood of 20,000. Leaving his plane and boarding an automobile, he was driven through College Park, East Point, through the downtown business section of Atlanta, out Peachtree to the Veterans' hospital and all the way was acclaimed by thousands of more people than have ever before lined these streets.

Elder Will Show Paris

SHIPS TRUNKS AHEAD TO FRENCH CAPITAL

What American Girls Wear

Lakeland, Fla., October 11.—(P)—A distinctly feminine gesture typified the high confidence which rides the wings of Ruth Elder's monoplane on her attempt to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic.

Shortly before she hopped off she had shopped here and in Tampa for a complete wardrobe "just to show them in Paris what the American girl is wearing," she sent her trunks ahead to await her arrival in the French fashion center.

Both she and her co-pilot, George Haldeman, refused to entertain the possibility of failing in their undertaking when they brought the American Girl to Florida on a test flight soon after it left the factory.

To those who sought to dissuade her from the attempt, pointing out the disaster which overtook the efforts of other trans-Atlantic fliers, she answered:

"I Am Determined."

"They shall not stop me. I am determined to be the first woman to cross. I know I shall make it. I am not afraid."

"Our plane is as safe as it is scientifically possible to make it. We have the latest word in safety devices and will carry many instruments not used by others who have preceded us. This to cross the Atlantic, however, was

"NOT A BIT EXCITED,"

FIBS RUTH ELDER

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., October 11.—(United News.)—Twenty-three-year-old Ruth Elder said she "wasn't a bit excited" before she started to fly to Paris today, but it was plain that she was fibbing.

Ruth was so excited she could scarcely contain herself.

Her hands trembled and her knees wobbled as she ran about the plane aimlessly during the last hours before the hop-off.

"Oh, I'm happy, happy, happy," she shouted in a husky voice.

Just before the take-off Ruth grew ecstatic. Leaning out of the plane she kissed H. E. Carroll and T. H. McArnold, two of the backers of the flight.

"I'll come back soon safe and sound," she cried. "I won't stay in Paris long."

AIR BODY GNORES

FLIGHT OF ELDER

Washington, October 11.—(United News.)—Personally and officially, America seems to have turned its back on recent air tragedies and with apparent indifference is watching attempts of Mrs. Frances Grayson and Miss Ruth Elder to span the Atlantic.

A month ago the two projected flights would have brought a storm of protest to the war department, navy, commerce department and the National Aeronautic association. Today not a murmur of complaint has been heard.

Deaths Are Forgotten.

The lives sacrificed to aviation in the Atlantic and Pacific seem to be forgotten.

A few weeks ago the convention of the National Aeronautic association met in St. Louis, Mo., and resolutions against women being carried on trans-Atlantic flights. Today the contest committee of the association met to see "what Griddle they would take on the proposed flights of Mrs. Grayson and Miss Elder and reached a compromise.

It was intimated that the association would send an official observer to Old Orchard, Maine, to seal a barograph in Mrs. Grayson's plane and regard the flight as an attempt to break a world's distance record. But at the same time, the association decided not to recognize the flight as that of Mrs. Grayson's but rather that of pilot Wilmer Stultz.

"If a record is made, it will be credited to Stultz," an official of the association said. "Mrs. Grayson will not be recognized as having any part in it. Officially she will be so much excess baggage."

Flight Is Ignored.

The proposed flight of Miss Elder's from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Paris was ignored by the association. It was explained that no attempt to break a world's distance record was being made, the project could not receive recognition.

However, if Mrs. Grayson's plane, "The Dawn," reaches its destination at Copenhagen with three persons aboard as planned, a world's record will have been established. (Cope) is approximately 3,700 miles from the starting point, Old Orchard.

A month ago, the commerce, war and navy departments were besieged with protests against further trans-Atlantic flights. In fact, the protests were so strong that the navy withdrew permission for Lieutenant Curtin and Ensign Edwards to accompany Captain Rene Fonck on his proposed hop to Paris. In addition, the order was issued that no naval officer, aviator or enlisted man would be permitted to accompany private planes in long distance, over-water flights.

or return to Rome for a round-the-world tour.

FORD RUBBER PROJECT

REGISTERED IN BRAZIL

Para, Brazil, October 11.—Despite reiterated denials in past months that Henry Ford contemplated growing rubber on a large scale in Brazil, the Companhia Ford Industrial do Brazil was registered here for "planting, refining, manufacturing and trading in rubber."

It is understood the concession comprises more than 4,000,000 acres of land on the banks of the Tapajós river.

Their elation at the successful hop-off of Dioudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Lebriz, from Paris to St. Louis, Senegal, on the first lap of their flight to Buenos Aires, gave way to amazement when cables announcing Miss Elder's take-off arrived. If the American girl succeeds, it will be a bitter pill for the officials refused to permit M. Costes even to attempt a flight over the north Atlantic this late in the season, and finally gave in and allowed the present southern hop.

Weather reports state the Americans will have perfect weather 1,000 miles off the French coast. The Le Bourget officials figure the Americans cannot hit the French coast until after daylight Thursday, so they won't bother to get the special searchlights set up.

The chief of police called a hasty meeting tonight and promised that the American Girl will not get mobbed like Colonel Lindbergh did if she lands.

PARIS ASKS ELDER

BY ELDER FLIGHT

Paris, October 11.—Paris was astounded by the news reaching the city at midnight of the take-off of Ruth Elder, though the biggest joy was to the big aviation officials, who, for the first time this year began to believe French aviation at last was about to retrieve its former glory.

Their elation at the successful hop-off of Dioudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Lebriz, from Paris to St. Louis, Senegal, on the first lap of their flight to Buenos Aires, gave way to amazement when cables announcing Miss Elder's take-off arrived. Costes even to attempt a flight over the north Atlantic this late in the season, and finally gave in and allowed the present southern hop.

Weather reports state the Americans will have perfect weather 1,000 miles off the French coast. The Le Bourget officials figure the Americans cannot hit the French coast until after daylight Thursday, so they won't bother to get the special searchlights set up.

The chief of police called a hasty meeting tonight and promised that the American Girl will not get mobbed like Colonel Lindbergh did if she lands.

Lindbergh Day

Rain Will Stay For Wednesday

Showing no partiality to the Lindbergh reception on Tuesday, the skies of Atlanta will continue cloudy today and probably emit a little rain in exact duplication of the "Lindbergh day" weather, says C. E. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the United States weather station.

A slight rise in temperature will accompany the change in the weather, according to the prediction.

Similar climatic conditions are forecast for the northern portion of Georgia, while no significant changes are to be anticipated over the rest of the state.

The thermometer fluctuations Tuesday were restrained to the limits of 60 and 67 degrees. Today the mercury column is scheduled to rise to the 61-degree level and reach 72 degrees before descending for the evening.

ELDER BACKERS

OPPOSED FLIGHT

Wheeling, W. Va., October 11.—(P)—Objections lodged by Wheeling business men backing the American Girl flight to Paris were not withdrawn, Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, her copilot, taking off today in spite of the trepidations of their backers, it was made known here tonight.

"We did not want Miss Elder to hop off," said Joseph D. Holloway, spokesman for the backers, "but now that she and George have started, we wish them godspeed and a safe arrival at Le Bourget field. It looks like a perilous journey, but we have provided everything humanly possible to carry them safely into Paris, and we have confidence in the ability of the two fliers. Barring unfavorable weather, they should make it."

The backers were advised early in the day that Miss Elder and her copilot were determined to start before sundown. "We had said all that could be said, and had offered to release the fliers from their contract," said Holloway. "But they maintained the same attitude shown when they stopped in Wheeling."

Holloway said that the backers are far from pessimistic, however, adding that he has a "hunch" they will make it.

AMERICAN BOMBS

SANDINO FORCES; PLANE CRASHES

Managua, Nicaragua, October 11.—(P)—After dropping bombs on General Sandino and 200 of his followers in northeast Ocuil Sunday afternoon Captain H. Thomas of the U. S. marine corps crashed into a mountain, but signalled that he was unhurt, marine headquarters announced today.

Many of Sandino's followers were killed in the attack and others dispersed. Scouting planes returning yesterday said Thomas and his pilot had struggled many miles to Jicar, arriving there in good condition.

Anxiety had been felt for some time because it was believed that Thomas and his pilot had fallen into the hands of bandits. The other planes that participated in the attack had returned to Managua after Thomas crashed.

MARY LOHR, BRITISH

STAR, ASKS DIVORCE

London, October 11.—(United News.)—England's great tragedienne, Mary Lohr, has filed suit for divorce against Anthony Leyland Val Princep, manager of the Globe theater since 1917, says the London Star.

Princep, a former athlete at Eton and Cambridge, recently announced he was retiring temporarily from management of the Globe to manage the 1928 Australian tour of Margaret Bannerman, another well-known actress.

The newspaper says it is understood the divorce suit will not be defended.

Cuts Last Cap, Leaves for Home

Cherbourg, October 11.—(United News.)—On the Leviathan with hundreds of American legionnaires and Sir Thomas Lipton, Charles A. Levine is homeward bound.

The New Yorker, who flew with Clarence Chamberlin from New York to Germany, became involved in various tangles with French airplane pilots, made a haphazard flight across the English channel and met the pope, cut one last cap before leaving.

Levine was late in Paris. As the Leviathan boat train pulled out he arrived in a taxi, wearing the same blue suit which he wore as trans-Atlantic air passenger, pilot and in papal audience, and made a mad rush through the station. Just as the track gates were about to close he ran through, dashed along the platform and finally caught the last car of the train.

He ordered the Columbia plane, in which he flew to Germany, to be repaired at Rome, but had not decided whether to ship the machine to New York for flights in the United States or return to Rome for a round-the-world tour.

Parents of Elder

Plane's Pilot Are Confident

Lakeland, Fla., October 11.—(P)—No doubt exists in the minds of an elderly couple here that their son, George Haldeman and Ruth Elder, will succeed in their attempt to follow the "Lindbergh Lane" to Paris.

"We have the utmost confidence and faith in George's ability," Mrs. J. J. Haldeman, the die's mother, said tonight when she read the Associated Press dispatches announcing her son's take-off for Europe. "We know he will succeed. He is thoroughly familiar with his task and we are sure that George would not attempt it if he was not sure he would succeed."

The news of the flier's departure spread like wild fire over the town and shortly after the fliers had left Roosevelt field in New York a crowd had besieged the newspaper offices here seeking more information.

Haldeman, who has made his home here for several years, is a veteran flier and is known to the city at large by his first name. Groups of three and four persons stood about the streets tonight discussing the chances the aviator and his companion are taking.

ORANGE, MAROON

COLORS CARRIED BY RUTH ELDER

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., October 11.—(United News.)—The monoplane American Girl, in which Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman took off today for Paris may be identified as follows:

It is orange in color save for the maroon nose.

It has the words "American Girl" painted in black and white script on both sides of the fuselage. Below it is printed "Wheeling, U. S. A."

At the right of the cockpit, in small script are the words, "Ruth Elder."

The license number, NX-1384, is printed in black on the lower side of the left wing and the upper side of the right wing. The number also is on both sides of the radiator, on which is the name, "Stinson-Lindbergh."

COOLIDGE REPLIES TO THOMASVILLE

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—Announcement that President Coolidge contemplates attending the Pan-American conference in Cuba next January has brought to him a deluge of invitations to visit cities in the south Atlantic states either during his journey to Havana or on his return trip to Washington.

Writing to Senator George, democrat, Georgia, acknowledging an invitation for Mr. Coolidge to visit Thomasville, Secretary Sanders said that for the president to accept even a small number of these invitations would prolong his trip far beyond the time he would have.

"The president does not feel that he should be away from Washington any longer than necessary while congress is in session," the secretary added.

FAMILIES OF LINDY AND REV. ERICKSON WERE NEIGHBORS

Parallels between the Christian life and Lindbergh's famous flight, as pictured Tuesday night by Rev. R. L. Erickson at the Gospel Tabernacle on Capitol avenue, held the congregation rapt with attention.

The evangelist, like Lindbergh, is of Scandinavian descent, and the Erickson and Lindbergh families dwell as neighbors in Minnesota, he said.

"When that boy started across the ocean I dropped on my knees and prayed that God would bear him safely over," he said. "I noticed," stated the revivalist, "that the newspapers first began to refer to Lindbergh as the 'flying fool.' Lots of times when a fellow starts to serve God he is called a fool."

"When Lindbergh started over the ocean he went alone. In similar manner must the sinner go to God for salvation. I noticed when this boy got out over the ocean a thousand miles he encountered storms. When he got into trouble he didn't come down lower to get out of it, he went up higher. When a Christian gets into trouble the way to get out is to go up higher."

"As great and glorious as was the flight of Lindbergh," asserted the evangelist, "it becomes a miniature when compared with the flight of one Christian life to God."

Revival services will continue through the week, according to announcement, with meetings at 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock daily.

Predicted Air's Conquest

WILLIAM H. ALBRIGHT.

Many years ago, when William Henry Albright, now 87, was a small boy, he made the amazing prediction, "If I live to be an old man, people will be flying in the air." He caught something of the possibilities of aircraft while flying a kite, and every body knows how true his prediction has become. Despite his fourscore and seven, Mr. Albright is hale and hearty, and took a close interest in all the ceremonies connected with Lindbergh's arrival Tuesday.

Flier Is Weary. Tuesday, perched above the back seat of an open car, for the thousandth time he ran the gauntlet. This time Atlanta's throngs chanted the "Lindy" paen. For the thousandth time he has seen a Roman holiday in his honor. But it was a weary man who heard it. Slumped forward on his

WINNING EXHIBITS GO TO SAVANNAH

Waycross, Ga., October 11.—(Special).—Ware county negro exhibits which took high honors at the Southeastern fair in Atlanta last week will be shown at the Georgia State fair in Savannah, it is announced by A. H. Hinesman, negro county agent, who has returned from Atlanta. The exhibits will be shipped this week. The Savannah fair opening on October 24.

Ware county took 10 ribbons at the Southeastern fair in the negro department. The awards were, as follows:

First place in individual sugar cane exhibits, for which a blue ribbon and $2 in cash were received.

First and second place in individual tobacco exhibits, for which a blue and red ribbon and $15 in cash were received.

First and second on boys' club work for the entire state of Georgia, for which a blue and red ribbon and $25 in cash were received.

Third in county exhibits for the entire state, for which a white ribbon and $75 in cash were received.

Fourth place in individual peanut exhibits, for which a yellow ribbon and $2 in cash were received.

Sixth place for individual pea exhibit, for which a green ribbon and $2 in cash were received.

Eighth place for the best 10-corn exhibit from the state at large, for which a gray ribbon and $5 in cash were received.

Tenth place for county corn display, for which a brown ribbon and $5 in cash were received.

seated, his right hand gestured automatically. As he rose to his feet for the address at the banquet in his honor, it was no longer the unknown mail pilot, the eager boy who went unconcerned about the business of conquering an ocean. It was a man, more urbane who has heard the din of crowds, the world's applause, a hermit yanked from his retreat.

The wide blue eyes which have so long gazed into space are tired with the closeup of humanity, haunted by the press of adoration. In those eyes is a hint of the road he has traveled to fame—the toll idolatry has exacted; and only do they light when he spreads the gospel of aviation and he tells of his air dreams—the only vital things in his life.

At such times only may he live his dreams before the roar of applause breaks his solitude.

Lindy is tired. Howling multitudes have screamed his fame. Millions have created a demigod and through the clamor, his lonely spirit must have winced. Under the barrage of prattlers, his youth has been ground. In his ceaseless turmoil, his iron nerve has been in a crucible.

Slender but surely, the noisy praise of nations has carved this solitary lad into a man infinitely tired of it all, a man wanting only the upper reaches of his beloved skies.

Are they clipping the eagle's wings? It is said that he is sacrificing wealth to carry on for aviation.

But what of the years of youth an unknown mail pilot laid on the altar of air conquest?

Several years ago Phil Love was flying over Vidalia, giving demonstrations of cotton dusting by airplane for the Huff-Daland company. Something went wrong with the plane and he crashed, receiving severe injuries. His nurse was Miss Alma Galbreath, of Vidalia, and between the two of them, nurse and patient—well, you begin to get an inkling of the story.

Correspondence Started. After Love's recovery he and Miss Galbreath kept up a constant correspondence. When she heard that he would accompany Lindbergh through Georgia she naturally expressed a wish to see the air conqueror of the Atlantic, and—well, you know what a fellow will do for his girl.

Phil broached the subject to Lindbergh, and the latter's response was typical of a man who is a firm pal to another man. "Sure," he said, "we'll go by Millen."

So that is why Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, world-renowned air hero, whom crowds fight to see, flew low over the Millen hospital grounds Tuesday at noon and "did his stuff" for a Georgia girl, while Phil Love, in a red Ryan plane, circled around, dropped a letter and waved with some considerable feeling at a tiny white figure amidst all that crowd of figures—a figure that wore a bright red rose at his request.

HELENE COSTELLO REVEALS THAT SHE MARRIED TWICE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood, Calif., October 11.—Helene Costello returned today from her honeymoon as Mrs. Jack Reagan and started Hollywood by confiding that her wedding trial with society trimmings at the Church of the Good Shepherd, here, on September 29, was only an access to the previous real marriage.

The actress says she and Reagan, who is the son of Lieutenant Colonel John Reagan, of Washington, D. C., were secretly wedded in Port Chester, N. Y., last June 20. She told her mother and her sister, Dolores, soon afterward. Helene said, and her mother arranged the church wedding by Father Mullins here.

Miss Costello will continue in motion pictures and young Reagan will move his advertising agency here from New York.

ATLANTA AND GEORGIA ACCLAIM LINDBERGH

For Pershing Point, where he participated in exercises held by the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., and Gold Star Mothers. Thence to Grant field, where he was acclaimed by another crowd of 20,000 people, before which he made a brief talk. From Grant field the distinguished visitor went to his quarters at the Baltimore hotel, where the entire fourth floor was reserved for him and the members of his party and their friends.

After several hours' rest Colonel Lindbergh went to the Ansley hotel roof, where he was the guest of honor at a brilliant banquet attended by more than 300 business, social and civic leaders of Atlanta and Georgia, with the governor of Georgia and the mayor of Atlanta to delivering addresses of welcome.

Early Wednesday morning Colonel Lindbergh will leave for Spartanburg, S. C. On his way he will circle several times over the city of Greenwood. After his visit to Spartanburg he will go to Winston-Salem, N. C., Thursday. He will reach New York October 23 after completing a tour that extended to every state of the Union and several provinces of the Dominion of Canada.

A quiver of a million persons saw the tongue-headed youngster, who wrote his name in imperishable letters on the pages of aviation history, sweep into the city of Greenwood from New York to Paris. They lined the route of the procession through Hapeville, College Park and East Point. In Atlanta they stood 20 deep cheering in a drizzling rain as they caught a fleeting glimpse of the world's most popular hero.

Atlanta outdid herself, and Lindbergh, with a winsome smile conducted himself with perfect poise and modesty, graciously acknowledging introductions to dignitaries and to humble Atlanta admirers.

From the time that the Spirit of St. Louis hove over Candler field until Lindbergh retired from the banquet halls at the Ansley hotel to his suite at the Hotel Baltimore Tuesday night, his each action indicated he is every inch a flier and impressed his audiences with qualities which showed that he deserved the place in the sun to which he has been elevated.

Cheered by Throngs. If Lindbergh needed to sell himself to Atlantans, he did a perfect job of it. Men and women, old and young, hailed him. They yelled until their throats were hoarse and threw in a few flowers for good measure.

Every event planned under direction of Henderson Hallman, general chairman of the special committee named by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to direct the reception, went off as scheduled and on time.

Lindbergh began the program in Atlanta by arriving exactly on scheduled time. His giant monoplane settling on Candler field in one of the most graceful landings ever seen there exactly at 2 o'clock.

After a few moments during which Lindbergh posed with dignitaries for photographers, he was ushered into his car and began a triumphal ride through Hapeville, College Park and East Point. He reached the intersection of Whitehall and Forsyth streets at 2:40 o'clock. He passed lanes of cheering persons, thousands of them who were anxious to get even a glimpse of the man who alone piloted the Spirit of St. Louis over the Atlantic to Paris.

Sits in Rain. From the start of the parade in Atlanta until he ended his trip at the Baltimore, where he received newspapermen, he was acclaimed by admiring thousands. Despite a rain and low threatening clouds, the "Lone Eagle" sat on the top of the back seat of his machine so that he could be seen by those who had braved the drizzle to cheer the hero of the nation's most modest and youngest hero.

The first stop after leaving Candler field came at Pershing Point, where he decorated the memorial to Fulton county heroes who gave their lives in the world war and where he himself was decorated with an emblem presented by the Atlanta chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Even the shrieking siren of Fire Chief William B. Coby's car failed to get a right-of-way for Lindbergh as he attempted to reach his car after this, and Mr. Hallman and Colonel Charles Cox forced a clear lane through which he might pass.

Enthusiastic women slapped the hero on the back as he attempted to reach his car; men did likewise and children crowded about him hungry for a single smile of recognition.

Finally the police and fire departments succeeded in placing him in the automobile, which began a hasty trip to the United States Veterans' Hospital No. 48.

Only a perfunctory inspection of the wards and the sick was permitted under pressure of time, and Lindbergh again was on his way to Grant field, Tech's stadium, where he was received with wild acclaim by many thousands and in downpour of rain.

Crowd Gathers Early. Many hours before the famous flier was scheduled to land at Candler field the crowds began to assemble in that territory. Long rows of automobiles were parked in all available space adjacent to the field and a steady stream of people moved toward the field from all directions. By noon the field was lined with spectators for a distance of several miles and estimates placed the crowd in this territory all the way from 15,000 to 30,000 people.

Henderson Hallman, general chairman, lined up the officials who were to be the first to greet the flier and stationed them in front of the hangar of Doug Davis, aviator. In this party were Governor L. G. Hardman, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, of Atlanta; the mayors of College Park, Hapeville and East Point; former Adjutant General Charles H. Cox, who served as Colonel Lindbergh's personal aide, and members of the governor's staff.

High above the crowd, half a dozen airplanes soared while the people waited patiently for the coming of the monoplane bearing Lindbergh. A great cheer went up from the crowd when a monoplane was sighted but it proved to be the advance ship bearing officials of the Guggenheim Foundation. Almost exactly at 2 o'clock the Spirit of St. Louis sailed into view.

Lindbergh flew over the field several times inspecting the landing places and almost exactly at 2 o'clock, the hour he was scheduled to arrive, he coasted down gracefully to the field and made a perfect landing. The crowd preserved absolute order and the famous pilot was given ample room to park his machine in the hangar and board the official reception automobile for the trip to the city.

After his triumphant parade through the streets of Atlanta, amid scenes of enthusiasm never witnessed here before, the Lindbergh party arrived at Grant field where more than 20,000 people had assembled to hear his speech and to witness his official welcome.

Address Cheered. Loud speakers carried Lindbergh's voice to all parts of the large field, and Lindbergh was cheered, hailed and praised by hundreds of husky throats as he completed his speech.

He then departed for the Baltimore hotel for a short rest before the dinner at the Ansley hotel tonight. The banquet hall was crowded and was lavishly decorated for the occasion.

Lindbergh's return to Georgia was really a return to the state in which he began his career as an aviator. It was in Georgia—Americus—where he bought his first plane. Following the war, Lindbergh was in the south barnstorming with a pilot who took the "natives for a ride at $5 a head," when the government advertised a number of war planes for auction at Americus. Lindbergh went to the Georgia city, and for a few hundred dollars bought a machine which he dubbed "Jenny."

He repaired it, tuned it up and began at once a series of adventures, which ended when he landed his giant monoplane in Paris May 21.

More than 70 cities, at least one in practically every state in the union, are included in the tour the flying colonel is making of the United States under direction of the Daniel Guggenheim foundation for advancement of aviation. The tour itself has been arranged to stimulate interest in aviation as a commercial means of transportation.

Lindbergh came to Atlanta from Jacksonville and will leave this morning for Spartanburg, S. C. From Spartanburg he will go to Winston-Salem and Richmond and during the last four days of his tour will visit Baltimore, Atlantic City, Washington, Wilmington, Philadelphia and New York, landing at the latter city on October 20, exactly three months from the time he began the trip.

Ohioans To Oppose Reparation Plan For Flood Victims

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—Representative Beeg, of Ohio, one of the house republican leaders, is receiving many letters urging reimbursement by congress of Mississippi flood sufferers but he declared today he had little sympathy for the proposals.

The flood victims, he argued, were no more entitled to federal relief than sufferers of the St. Louis tornado. He said he was ready to favor immediate appropriations by congress for repairs to the Mississippi levees to protect the region until a permanent flood control program is drafted, but that that should be the extent of federal action.

Wise motorists check their ignition when the engine falls short of the fine performance that it once had.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred and it is afterwards found that all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. This for the reason that spark plugs in time deteriorate and need to be replaced.

This is the simplest, safest and least costly thing to do before authorizing extensive repairs or adjustments. When you buy spark plugs, be sure to insist on A.C.—the spark plug on which Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd and other great flyers staked their lives—then you will be sure of perfect spark plug performance.

LINDBERGH IS ATLANTA'S RULER FOR A DAY

MIGHTY SHOUTS GREET COLONEL AS HE ALIGHTS

First Thought on Landing Is for Safety of His Plane; Arrives on Time to the Dot.

BY BILL SHIPPEN.
Curving downward from the lofty avenues of the sky, the winged Spirit of St. Louis, bearing Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Tuesday afternoon broke through a bank of slate-gray clouds that masked Atlanta, and five minutes later, on schedule to the split-second, settled on Candler field at 2 o'clock. Eyes of 50,000 spectators at the field a scant six minutes prior to his arrival, were trained on the misty skyline of Atlanta. An expectant hush brooded over the vast assemblage, whose tiered ranks banked the enclosure for almost a mile along the north and east boundaries.

Then a mighty shout went up as a speck appeared beneath the lowering clouds. Growing with unbelievable speed, it became a graceful monoplane whose silver sides gleamed as she banked and circled. The drone of a distant motor swelled to a symphony of power as the ship thundered down over the crowd. Approximately 500 feet overhead the flying colonel opened a side window and took "a squirt" at the field. He circled twice, retarded his motor, and picked the smoothest spot on Candler field for a perfect landing.

Crowd Orderly.

When the famous plane wheeled on the ground and taxied down on the hangars toward the official party, eager thousands restrained themselves behind the lines and displayed a spirit of courtesy almost unprecedented in crowd history, officials said.

Down an open lane the Spirit of St. Louis roared into a berth in the hangar.

While the reception committee waited, the air viking busied himself in the cabin, making certain that all was well with the plane that has borne him in safety over perilous air paths.

He bent over the instrument board for a final examination, then fastened

Scenes snapped Tuesday afternoon at Candler field as Charles A. Lindbergh landed to pay a visit to Atlanta. At left Lindy is shown just after he alighted from "The Spirit of St. Louis," being greeted by Colonel Charles Cox, commander of the 122nd infantry (in uniform), and Henderson Hallman, chairman of the reception committee, at right. Eyes Are Friendly.
There was a friendly gleam in the blue eyes and a quick smile for the governor, the mayors and the reception committee who crowded around him in the hangar.
Colonel Lindbergh was at least a head taller than the distinguished group who circled about him, and, for all his poise, seemed absurdly boyish to have won the acclaim of the civilized world.

The visitor shed a leather flying coat, donned another to match a dark business suit and strode forth, bare-headed, to lead the procession through the city.
The reception committee included Governor L. G. Hardman, of Georgia;

Winsome Dancer 'Kid Boots' Star Flew With Lindy

The coveted honor of having flown through the air as a passenger in a plane piloted by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is one possessed by few fortunate individuals. By a coincidence, one of these fortunate individuals was in Atlanta Tuesday when the famous hero paid this city a visit.

MISS CHONA PAULA.

She is Miss Chona Paula, dainty and petite little singing and dancing star, who plays an important role in "Kid Boots," the big musical comedy production now playing a week's engagement at the Erlanger theater.

Miss Paula was in St. Louis when Colonel Lindbergh was piloting one of the air-mail planes prior to his record-breaking flight across the Atlantic. While visiting Lambert field she had an opportunity to fly with Lindbergh and immediately grasped it. She and the famous flier circled around St. Louis for a good long ride, after which Miss Paula became a close personal friend of the world-acclaimed hero.

"I thought he was a darling boy even then and, of course, since his famous flight I think he's more darling than ever," Miss Paula said.

The coveted honor of flying with Lindbergh is one kind of honor but there are lots of pilots who would consider an opportunity of flying with Miss Paula something of an honor too, as a glance at the accompanying picture will attest.

Miss Paula plays the part of "Jane" in "Kid Boots" and her singing and dancing is one of the hits of that very fine show.

"I'm certainly glad we played Atlanta this week so I could get a chance to see Mr. Lindbergh again," Miss Paula said.

ATLANTA'S ESTEEM SHOWN IN BOOK GIVEN LINDBERGH

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Atlanta's honored guest Tuesday night at an elaborate banquet at the Ansley hotel, was presented with a handsome vellum volume, bound in green morocco and bearing the insignia of the flying service, by A. J. Orme, prominent Atlanta, in behalf of the city.

This volume contains the city's expression of admiration and affection and signed statements of esteem by more than 100 leading Atlantans.

Mr. Orme is chairman of city council's finance committee and vice president of the Atlanta Trust company.

Eugene R. Black, president of the same institution, acted as toastmaster at the dinner.

Lindbergh Sees Big Future For Air Passenger Service

Early Establishment on Permanent Basis Predicted

Regular passenger service in airplanes between populous centers will be established on a permanent basis in a few years, and in some parts of the country in a few months.

That was the opinion expressed Tuesday by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh after Atlanta had roared out a mighty welcome in his honor during the afternoon.

Development of air navigation will not be limited to any particular part of the country and there are no natural advantages possessed by any one section as against the other, in the opinion of the flier.

"Establishment of air ports, with adequate facilities for planes, with proper equipment for repairs and with conditions as near perfect as possible to assure safe landings is the first essential that will aid development of air navigation," he said. "Those cities which provide such facilities and those sections of the country which have them in the larger number will be the first to reap the benefits of air traffic."

FAMOUS FLIER TALKS POINTEDLY.
After talking with Colonel Lindbergh, the hero declared that he held his popularity after receiving enough homage to turn the head of the strongest minded people. He is courteous, affable, speaks directly to the point, gives information readily and if the question asked him is one that he cannot answer he politely declines.

"The trans-Atlantic flight here would not discuss the failure of other fliers to negotiate the trip from America to Europe. He did state that it is his belief that such trips should not be attempted purely for publicity purposes.

"Trans-Atlantic flights should not be continued until facilities are provided for the safe forced landings," he said. "New ways must be devised to make communication easier between a plane that has been forced to land and the ground."

HAS NO PLANS FOR FUTURE.
Lindbergh declared that he has adopted no definite plans for his future career and will not adopt any until he reaches New York on his present tour of the country.

"I expect to arrive in New York October 23 and shall then discuss for the first time my permanent plans for the future. Of course I feel now that whatever these plans are they will be connected with aviation."

Lindbergh has completed arrangements to present his history-making plane to the Smithsonian institution to be preserved there for future generations.

"The plane is running today, however, as perfectly as it ran on the trans-Atlantic flight," he said.

The hero made his first flight alone at Americus, Ga., April 19, 1923. Asked if this did not make him a "Georgia flier," he replied with a laugh that several other states might dispute such a claim.

"My plane itself was made in California," he said.

WATCHING PLANE.
Colonel Lindbergh was asked to tell some of his thoughts while on his lonely trip across the Atlantic.

"I had so many instruments to watch that I did not have time to think of much besides piloting my plane," the hero declared.

Lindbergh said he was not familiar with conditions under which Paul Rader made his ill-fated flight toward South America and also said he did not know any of the details of the flight of "Old Glory" or the proposed flight of Ruth Elder.

"It all flights of this character, however, it would be best for pilots to arrange some way of communicating with the rest of the world in case of forced landings," he said.

Atlanta stands first with Lindbergh in one respect. This city provided the best order in all the welcoming crowds that have been faced by the famous hero of the air on his present tour, he told newspaper representatives at the Biltmore hotel Tuesday.

"That was the best police crowd that has met me on my present tour," was Lindbergh's tribute to this city.

Atlanta furnished its daily commercial routine Tuesday to roar out a mighty welcome to the first man to span the ocean by air.

Lindbergh Warmly Received By Disabled War Veterans

BY HERMAN HANCOCK.
One of the most cordial receptions accorded Lindbergh in his stops in Atlanta was that given Tuesday afternoon at United States Veterans Hospital No. 48.

Escorted from Pershing Point to the hospital by a special delegation from the American Legion under the command of Frank Kempton, commander of Argonne post No. 1, and Mr. Arthur Hazzard, president of the hospital, Lindbergh spent several minutes in greeting inmates of the institution, visiting every ward in which bedridden patients were unable to line up to greet him as he entered the grounds of the institution.

William E. Tate, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, with headquarters in Cincinnati, who came to Atlanta especially to greet Lindbergh, was presented to him and made a brief address.

Colonel Lindbergh was met as he entered the institution by Dr. George L. Johnson, medical officer in charge; Dr. K. A. Carroll, clinical director; Howard Glenn, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans; Mrs. Hazzard, Frank Kempton and Asa Warren Candler, state commander of the American Legion.

"As national commander of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, representing a group of young American manhood who glorified the pages of American history in 1917-18, I am proud to join in paying tribute to the finest example of American manhood," Mr. Tate said.

LINDBERGH MAKES AVIATION PLEA AT GRANT FIELD

Addressing Throng at Stadium, Says Future of Flying Needs Cooperation of General Public.

A plea for the support of commercial aviation, by providing patronage and airport facilities, was voiced Tuesday afternoon by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh at Grant field before the massed thousands who gave him a reception that left no doubt of their admiration.

The crowd, which was like those drawn by Tech's football classics, began gathering as soon as the gates were opened at 1 o'clock and an hour later was large enough to give an enthusiastic welcome to "The Spirit of St. Louis" when the plane and its lone flier soared and dipped above the field.

Colonel Lindbergh marched on the field escorted by the governor and his staff while detachments of regular soldiers, members of the Tech military organization and other bodies of soldiers formed a line to keep the crowds away from the field. Arriving at the speaker's stand Colonel Lindbergh was greeted by Governor Hardman, Mayor Hazdale, United States Senator William J. Harris, Colonel Frederic J. Paxson and Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech.

The official welcome to Colonel Lindbergh was delivered by former United States Senator Hoke Smith. The invocation was pronounced by Dr. J. Single Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Colonel Lindbergh spoke only one minute and these speeches were all that were delivered at the Grant field reception.

Plea for Aviation.
"This tour is being made to promote interest in aviation in America," Colonel Lindbergh said. "We are on the verge of a great development in commercial aviation in this country. Today the country is being served by well established mail lines. In the near future we will have passenger routes established over the country by mail routes. We want to do all we can to promote interest in the commercial aviation but before we place this service at your disposal, we need your cooperation. You can cooperate in two big material ways. First by providing adequately equipped landing fields. Second by providing patronage for the air lines after they are established. I want to thank you for your welcome to me and for the interest you have shown in this visit. I hope in the future you will devote part of your time to an interest in the development of aeronautics."

The former Senator Smith delivered the official speech of welcome. Senator Smith said:

Smith's Address.
"This large crowd bears witness to the great pleasure with which we welcome the visit of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to Atlanta."

"He has come to us in the historic 'Spirit of St. Louis,' thus allowing us to see the airplane in which he made his memorable non-stop flight all alone from New York to Paris."

"It has been said of him that he has done more to create good feeling and to increase the prestige of the United States in Europe than any American since George Washington."

"The leading officials of many nations have acclaimed his prowess. Kings, queens and rulers have vied with each other to do him honor."

"He came back to his own people to be welcomed by the most spontaneous tribute of affection ever given by any nation."

"President and Mrs. Coolidge had his mother and himself as their guests, and President Coolidge pinned the breast of the distinguished flying cross."

"When he reached New York more than 4,000,000 people lined the streets to get a glimpse of him, and he was presented with the New York state medal of valor by Governor Smith."

"It was not merely the hazard of the adventure, but the transference which Colonel Lindbergh had in himself and in his motor that awakened the world to the possibilities of the airplane, and this has given him a place in history larger than the confines of his own country."

"Colonel Lindbergh is now devoting himself to the promotion of aviation. He is the one person who can attract attention to it, and with his record and knowledge, aviation should be greatly stimulated."

"The absence of self-claim, the refusal to be commercialized, which has marked his conduct, has endeared him to every one."

"He has been honored as no other citizen of the United States and he has borne himself with a modesty that has been charming."

Every Vantage Point Occupied As Lindy Passes
Atlanta saw Lindbergh.

Not since the stirring days of 1917 has the city marshaled such vast crowds.

Estimates place the Candler field attendance at from 70,000—the opinion of those who viewed the crowd from aloft—to 40,000—the estimate of conservative observers on the ground.

A wide-flung semi-circle of motor cars flanked the flying field on the north and east. Dense ranks of pedestrians stood about the building.

But the downtown throngs were the greatest of all. Approaching through the mist, held strategic points on roof-tops, climbed telephone poles and packed the streets on either hand from the building fronts almost to the car tracks.

Police had cleared the way of all parked motors, making room for additional thousands. At Fire Points the approaches were choked by serried ranks.

Atlanta Acclaims Heroic Lindbergh in City's Greatest Demonstration

Atlanta Tuesday gave itself over to a tremendous welcome to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, lone eagle of the Atlantic, the demonstration lasting from the moment his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," first appeared at Candler field until Lindy retired for the night. At the top is a graphic picture of the graceful landing of the famous trans-Atlantic plane at Atlanta's municipal aviation field with packed thousands braving a light drizzle of rain to catch a first glimpse of the noted visitor. Center, Lindbergh and Colonel Charles H. Cox as they marched between the raised sabres of the Old Guard so that the air hero of the present, under the auspices of Atlanta's War Mothers, might pay fitting tribute to the heroes of the world war. To the right, Lindy appears with Mrs. Sam Jones, president of the War Mothers' Gold Star Legion, and Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of Atlanta Woman's club, placing a wreath before the tablet listing Atlanta's illustrious war dead at Pershing Point. On this same occasion the Flying Colonel was honored by the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., and to the left is shown General David B. Freeman pinning an appropriate decoration on Lindbergh's breast. Three pictures at the lower left show the public reception at Grant field, Lindbergh before the microphone through which he delivered his message to enthusiastic thousands; the stand from which he spoke with its military guard, and the crowded amphitheater, and the procession onto the field in which America's premier aviator was accompanied by Colonel Cox, Governor L. G. Hardman, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and other officials. Below the center and to the right is pictured the speaker's table at the banquet tendered Lindbergh at the Ansley hotel. From left to right they are: Don Keyhoe, representative of the Guggenheim foundation, under whose auspices Lindy's tour is being conducted; Eugene R. Black, toastmaster; Henderson Hallman, chairman of the local committee on arrangements; Governor Hardman and Mayor Ragsdale. The photograph of Lindy's landing was taken by Kenneth Rogers, the central picture by Francis E. Price and the other views on the page by various members of The Constitution's photographic staff.

BULGARIAN PORT FLOODED; 5 DIE AS HOUSE FALLS

Sofia, Bulgaria, October 11.—(AP)—A large part of Bulgaria has been flooded during the last few days, especially the region surrounding Varna, the country's principal port on the Black sea.

Five persons were killed in the collapse of a brick-making plant there and many were injured. Some of the streets are under three feet of water and dozens of buildings have been ruined.

The small town of Vasiliko on the Black sea was almost wiped out, 300 houses being destroyed and many persons injured. Railway service throughout the district was crippled.

WILBUR TO TESTIFY IN OIL CONSPIRACY

Washington, October 11.—(United News.)—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur heads the long list of witnesses subpoenaed for the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial to begin here Monday. Former Attorney General Daugherty, several senators and 80 or more others have been called to testify. It is expected that the trial will last three weeks.

Much of the evidence to be used by the government in its prosecution is the same as that on which the United States supreme court yesterday annulled the Teapot Dome lease on grounds of fraud.

FALL IS EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON

Chicago, October 11.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, during whose tenure as secretary of the interior the Teapot Dome lease was made, was en route to Washington tonight to stand trial on criminal charges with Harry F. Sinclair, ready for trial and ready to assert his innocence.

"Once only have I faced charges in relation to the oil leases in question, and then I was acquitted by Mr. Doherty by a jury," he said after he had boarded the train.

"I am not worried about the outcome of the coming trial. It has not occurred to me that I might be found guilty, a man doesn't think of that, you know, when he is absolutely sure of his own integrity."

He said he would be ready for trial next Monday.

Fall said he had been subpoenaed in the case but that he had not been called.

MANCHESTER PLANS CELEBRATION FRIDAY

Manchester, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Manchester is preparing to celebrate the completion of the paving of Main street and Broad street and the opening of the white way in this city Friday, October 14. The Kiwanis club, the American Legion, Woman's club and business men of the city are putting forth every effort to make this event the biggest day in the history of the city.

The celebration has been advertised throughout this and adjoining counties, and it is anticipated that people from many miles will come to join in the celebration and enjoy the program which has been prepared.

The program will commence at 9 o'clock in the morning with a parade, accompanied by a brass band, over the newly-paved streets of this city, and will continue with various entertainments until midnight. Among other events on the program will be speeches by some of the most prominent men of the state, including Senator Walter F. George and John N. Holder, chairman of the highway board, and others.

As well as "hog calling" and "hen calling" contests. A barbecue will be served. In the afternoon a football game between High school and West Point High school will be played on the local gridiron. At 8 o'clock in the evening an elaborate fireworks display will be put on, followed by a street dance sponsored by Manchester post No. 88, American Legion.

The people of Manchester are making an effort to have the celebration the biggest and most enjoyable ever held in this section of the state.

Many Industries Find Conservation Of Fuel Costly

St. Louis, October 11.—(AP)—Some industries find it cheaper to waste fuel than to save it. W. Trinks, professor of engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers' convention today.

The speaker mentioned instances of steel companies discarding gas engines for steam units which could be operated more cheaply, although more wasteful of fuel.

Likewise railroads held to steam because electrification was more costly to the present generation, he declared.

"Likewise, in our present domestic life," he said, "it costs too much apparently to save fuel." He declared that altogether too many houses were flimsily built, "keeping out the rain, the wind and the neighbor's curiosity, but constructed with little regard to insulation and consequent fuel economy."

A high tax on fuel, out of the surplus of which the government could pay for fuel-saving equipment in part, at least, is one possible remedy for the present tendency, Trinks said.

"All of this would be changed as if it were touched by a magic wand if fuel suddenly became scarce and expensive. If that change occurred, the fuel engineer, who is now the 'fifth wheel' on the wagon of many industries, would suddenly ride into prominence."

"Clean-Up Week."

Waycross, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The Woman's club of Folklston has named the week October 10-14 as "clean-up week." They hope to have the city spick and span in readiness for the district medical convention Tuesday, October 18.

W. H. HOWELL MURDER TRIAL TO OPEN TODAY

Eastman, Ga., October 11.—(AP)—Fulfillment of a promise made by Judge Graham to an organized mob that a negro who was about to be hanged, would be tried within a week if the band would disperse and permit the law to take its course, the trial of Willie Thomas, 20, negro and the man whom he involves in the murder of W. H. Howell, 69, near McRae, about a week ago, Tom Buchanan, 28, a white man, will begin here tomorrow morning.

The speed with which the investigation of the killing has gone forward and the time in which the two men will have been brought into court, is believed to be setting a record in this section.

It was learned today that Buchanan is being held in the Cochran jail. He will be brought to Eastman for trial tomorrow morning. The place where Buchanan was hustled when mob violence threatened, was kept a secret.

Vanora, known only as "Hanna," was at first reported he had been taken to the jail in Macon.

The state, in prosecuting the two men, will depend upon the confession made by the negro as well as circumstantial evidence. There was no eyewitness.

According to the negro, who confessed to a mob near here on the night he was taken to jail, he was employed by Buchanan to kill Howell.

BUCHANAN STILL HELD IN COCHRAN.

Cochran, Ga., October 11.—(AP)—Sheriff Jones, of Bleckley county, in whose charge Tom Buchanan, charged with the murder of W. H. Howell, has been placed, was not in Cochran this morning and it could not be learned definitely when he would move his prisoner to Eastman for trial. It was stated at the jail, however, that Buchanan was still in Cochran. Sheriff Jones was in Macon today.

COLLEGE TO TEACH LIFE INSURANCE SELLING PLANNED

Memphis, Tenn., October 11.—(AP)—Formation of the American College of Life Underwriters as a means of professionalizing the business of selling life insurance will be submitted to the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Plans for such a project, it was announced, were submitted today to the board of trustees of the association, which met this afternoon preliminary to the opening session tomorrow of the annual convention of the organization. Today's meeting was executive and no announcement was made as to the recommendations to be made to the association.

Other than the meeting of the trustees, today was given over to informal meetings and registration of delegates. The address of George M. Alder, of Salt Lake City, president of the association, will be delivered at the forenoon session tomorrow.

FEEL YESTERDAY PLEADED GUILTY TO A charge of disturbing the peace, resulting from his entry into the crowded tabernacle here of the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), waving banners and heralding "a message for Israel."

"I plead guilty to delivering a message of peace from God," Feil said when asked if he was prepared for sentence. Punishment was fixed and the sentence suspended, but City Judge John H. Morgan warned Feil that a repetition of the offense would result in his incarceration for the term imposed in addition to a more severe penalty.

The undergarment edict was issued two years ago, modifying a rule prescribed by Joseph Smith, providing for garments leaving only the feet, hands and head exposed. The order also permitted buttons on the undergarments instead of strings.

Feil's objection to the change was registered at a recent meeting. He told the church today his message was one merely of repentance and reformation.

AMERICUS GOING TO POLLS TODAY

Americus, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Lively interest is being evinced in the municipal primary to be held here Wednesday, when a mayor and three members of council are to be nominated, with nomination equivalent to election. A total of 1,702 persons have registered for the election, being the heaviest registration in the recent history of Americus municipal politics.

J. T. Warren, Americus businessman, and James A. Fort, a local lawyer, are majority candidates. There the campaign is being made principally upon the personal popularity of the two men, although grave municipal problems must be handled by the successful candidate.

Running for aldermanic places upon the ticket with Warren are Evan Mathis, Leon Slappey and A. F. Fannin, and running upon the Fort ticket for these places are Cliff Williams, Walter Mott and Joe Poole. Three aldermen are to be elected, and these, with the mayor, will constitute a majority of council, the mayor having the same voice in matters coming before council as any other member of that body, in addition to being the presiding officer and having the prerogative of appointing all the committee of council.

Aldermen named at Wednesday's primary will serve during two years, the successful majority candidate will serve only during the remainder of the unexpired term of the late Mayor J. Elmore Poole, until January 1, 1928. The successful candidate for mayor will take office immediately following the election, while the aldermen winners will not take their seats until January 1, 1928, when the new council is formally organized.

G. C. Webb, mayor pro tem under the administration of Mayor Poole, who is not a candidate in Wednesday's election, is serving as mayor in the interim.

HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION MEETING AT AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The Wilson Highway association will meet here tomorrow for its annual conference. Attendance of delegates from all sections covered by the route are expected.

A business session will be held at Carmichael club and a barbecue supper will be served. A motortour over the route of the highway was one of the features of the meeting as planned by Dr. J. H. Carswell, president of the association.

Dr. Carswell has announced the following speakers for tomorrow's meeting:

State Senator W. W. Phillips, Lake City, Fla.; H. D. Reed, of Waycross, judge of the superior court; R. R. Hanna, of Cheraw, S. C., president of the Calhoun highway; C. E. Hollister, Daytona Beach, Fla.; John R. Phillips, of the Georgia highway board; J. W. Cox, vice president of the Wilson highway; Johnson, S. C.; J. B. Johnson, of Lyons, Ga., vice president Wilson highway.

The president will make his annual address, to be followed by the election of officers.

SUSPENDED JAIL TERM IS GIVEN MODE OBJECTOR

Salt Lake City, Utah, October 11.—(AP)—Penitent and professing no ill feeling toward the Mormon church, Paul Feil, 50, was today given a suspended five-day sentence in expiration for interrupting a meeting of 10,000 churchmen, assembled to sustain an edict permitting shorter undergarments.

Feil yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace, resulting from his entry into the crowded tabernacle here of the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), waving banners and heralding "a message for Israel."

Ladies—May we say a few words to you about the New Julian Goldman Store

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15th we will be ready to serve you. We've come to Atlanta because we felt we had a mission here for ourselves—and some very definite advantages for you—

Aside from the fact that the Julian Goldman Store will be beautifully appointed—aside from its being very conveniently located. To mention these things would be to place undue emphasis on them.

The Julian Goldman store excels not by any one of these features, but by something far greater—it is superior by virtue of its being a chain organization with the mighty purchasing power of 55 combined stores—Superior because of its staff of Fashion Stylists and buyers who are always on the alert to give you the very newest in fashion, the very best in quality at the very lowest in price—

And superior because of the Julian Goldman Charge Account Plan—a charge accommodation which may be extended over a period of time if you wish instead of meeting your bills monthly.

To you ladies in charge of the family budget this feature should be of particular interest to you as we make no charge whatever for it—

FIGHTER CLEARED ON ASSAULT COUNT

Accused of assault with intent to murder in connection with the shooting of his former sweetheart, Albert Demenico, alias Albert Chesrow, in Fulton superior court Tuesday morning was acquitted by a jury after 52 minutes' deliberation.

Demenico, alias Chesrow, was faced by Miss Frances Ford, pretty blonde he is alleged to have shot because he was jealous of her when she "jilted him." She was the state's star witness.

Poland's BRIGHTEN-UP

Makes Cleaning a Pleasure

Now sold for the first time in small packages through grocers for home use.

Originally made and sold in barrels to large institutions and industries for their own cleaning.

When Brighten-Up was in the process of development and was being tested the first unusual thing we noticed was that it brightened silver, plated and sterling, by mere washing. Then we found that stains could be instantly and harmlessly removed and the silver polished brilliantly just by being dipped into a boiling solution of Brighten-Up.

Now you can discard the old rubbing silver polishes and keep your silver brighter than ever for Brighten-Up does away with the work part of polishing silver.

Today millions of pieces of silver are being polished daily in hotels and cafes by Poland's Brighten-Up. Buy Brighten-Up from your grocer, 10c, or we will send a free sample.

ness, and told of numerous threats the defendant had made against her life. On one occasion, just a few days prior to the shooting, she called the police to her home to disarm him of a pistol which she was threatening her, she testified.

The shooting, which occurred on Wednesday morning, August 17, 1927, followed Miss Ford's refusal to permit Demenico to enter her home, she said, he having shot her through the door after having broken a panel of glass in an effort to force the door open.

Demenico's defense was accidental discharge of the pistol. He was represented by Attorney F. Joe Turner, Jr., while the prosecution was conducted by Assistant Solicitor General Ed A. Stephens. The trial was before Judge John D. Humphries.

Demenico is under two other indictments charging misdemeanors, one containing two counts. The charges are carrying a concealed weapon, discharging a pistol within 50 yards of a public highway between sundown and sunrise, and carrying a pistol without a license. The solicitor announced the defendant would be placed on trial on these indictments next week.

Demenico is a former bantam-weight prizefighter, his fighting name being "Al Ginger."

A. C. L. OPENS NEW PASSENGER AGENCY ON CENTRAL AVE.

Primarily to assist the large numbers of tourists who will visit Atlanta while en route to and from Florida during the coming winter season, the Atlantic Coast Line railroad announces the opening of a new district passenger agency at 104 Central avenue.

The new office will be in charge of Mark H. Bradley, who was formerly traveling passenger agent with headquarters in New York. Mr. Bradley assumes the position of district agent for the new office.

Mr. Bradley has been with the Atlantic Coast Line for 17 years, beginning his service in Savannah, where he stayed for 12 years, then serving for three years in Montgomery and since in New York. For some years past he has visited Florida each spring to aid in handling the heavier patronage there during that time of year.

Mr. Bradley, who says he is extremely pleased to be located in Atlanta, expects a continued increase in the Atlantic Coast Line business here.

MILLION OF INSURANCE IS WRITTEN IN WEEK

On September 30 the agents working under George H. Phillips, district manager for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, gave a dinner honoring Mr. Phillips on his 53d birthday and the 25th anniversary of his service with the company. The dinner was planned and the celebration directed by Assistant Managers C. F. Klenke, Jr., and D. C. Crisp.

At that dinner the agents announced that, to substantially show their love for Mr. Phillips, they would undertake to write at least a million dollars worth of new business in the ordinary department—which excludes the industrial class of business—within one week.

The week closed last Friday night and Tuesday, after careful checking, it was found that the million-dollar undertaking had been accomplished with an excess margin of over $50,000.

Speaking of this remarkable record Tuesday, Klenke and Crisp said that it was attributable chiefly to two factors. First they placed the high esteem in which Mr. Phillips is held by all the agents, about 45 in number. Not a man but feels, they said, that Mr. Phillips is a real leader as opposed to a "driver" and not a man but looks up to him both as business mentor and personal friend.

The second factor was the enthusiasm generated at the birthday dinner, which continued unabated throughout the remarkable campaign week.

Mr. Phillips began his career with the Metropolitan in Atlanta. Later he worked in other territories but returned to Atlanta in 1915. He is district manager for the company's Piedmont district, which includes about one-third of the city of Atlanta and Griffin and Thomasville. He is regarded as one of the leading insurance managers in the south and his reputation has carried all over the country and into the organization of all the leading companies. In addition to the high esteem by which he is held by the entire personnel of the company.

SPOON, PINS, KEY FOUND IN STOMACH OF CAMDEN WOMAN

Camden, N. J., October 11.—(United News.)—Here are a few of the articles an X-ray revealed in the stomach of a woman inmate of a hospital for mental diseases at Camden, Del.

One teaspoon, six metal hair curlers, six safety pins (the wire hairpins open), 12 buttons, six wire hairpins and a door key.

An X-ray picture of the patient's stomach was made after she had taken a laxative. Physicians said that as soon as she recovered from the effects of the poison they would operate to remove the hardware.

CHICKEN THIEF WILL SERVE LIFE TERM FOR CRIME

Buffalo, N. Y., October 11.—(United News.)—Because Edward Orchard's theft of 112 chickens was his fourth felony he must serve the remainder of his life in prison. Orchard, who is 38, hoped to evade the Raumes "fourth offense" law by claiming that he stole only 71 chickens, which would have constituted only petit larceny.

CHILD IS KILLED BY FALL INTO CAN OF DISINFECTANT

Savannah, Ga., October 11.—(AP) Falling into a narrow yard can partly filled with a solution of strong disinfectant, a 14-month-old child, James D. Glisson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Glisson, 4 Hershaw street, died shortly after 5 o'clock today. Its head was submerged in the liquid and death followed quickly. Only a 6-year-old brother, Tommy, was in the house at the time, both the father and mother of the child being at work.

They Wouldn't Believe

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

On the way to Donald Briery's home at Rubington for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friends Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father. Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Sandie and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Briery of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Angelina Briery, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Sandie. Querk suggests to Sandie that he invite Briery to Harrowby house and there with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wale, dispose of Briery.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Sandie and another man kill Mr. Briery, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story, Querk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, she proceeds to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the men place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and is exasperated Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandie to come to the superintendent's office and he presents his alibi, which the police officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wade's office where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heirs, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones there. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son, but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Querk later informs that Connie imagined she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Sandie is about to bring criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private sanitarium which she recommends. While Donald is visiting Connie at Macdon house a lady is found buried in his garden. Olive, sent out on the case by her newspaper, meets and warns Donald. She arranges a hiding place for him in London. Detective Rason calls on Olive.

CONNIE SEES THE NEWS-PAPERS.

Nurse Flecker picked up the brushes and set to work brushing Connie's hair. Presently she rested. "You introduced me to your visitor yesterday. In case he comes again—I'm afraid I didn't catch the name. I'm one of those unfortunate people who can very rarely catch a name at an introduction."

"Briery," Connie informed her, and added: "You know he's my fiancée, don't you?"

"I gathered that from the matron," answered Nurse Flecker as she resumed work with the brushes. "Briery, I shall remember it now. O—"

"What is it, nurse?"

"Nothing—nothing. How beautifully thick your hair is! Mr. Briery, no—not Mr. Donald Briery, by any chance?"

There was an odd note in the nurse's voice that awoke Connie's curiosity.

"Yes, his first name is Donald. But you don't know him, do you, nurse? You didn't seem to recognize each other when I introduced you."

"No—oh, no. No, I've never seen Mr.—Mr. Briery—Mr. Donald Briery before. O, it's nothing. Sorry if I brushed your hair! Mr. Briery doesn't live at Rubington, does he?"

"Yes. How did you know that?"

"O, but he can't—he mustn't—he can't."

"What is the matter, nurse? Why shouldn't he live at Rubington?"

"Nothing, nothing," cried Nurse Flecker, deliberately floundering. "Yes, of course, as you say—why shouldn't he live at Rubington? Ha-ha-ha. There's no reason at all why he shouldn't live at Rubington. Why should there be?"

"Nurse?"

"Miss Elmore, sit down, please," said Nurse Flecker, as if she were making a last effort to appear calm. "I haven't finished brushing your hair."

"Nurse?"

"Yes, Miss Elmore, what is it? What do you want? Why do you keep saying 'Nurse'?"

"You ask me if he lives at Rubington, and when I say 'yes' you suddenly become excited."

"O, don't take any notice of me!" wailed the nurse. "I beg of you, I implore you—take no notice. I'm a bit nervous myself sometimes. O, if you say anything to matron I shall be ruined—turned out as incompetent. O, I oughtn't to have breathed a word—I ought never to let you guess from my manner."

"Guess what from my manner?"

"O!" Nurse Flecker covered her face with her hands. "I—I happened to be reading the paper while you were having your bath. He is in trouble."

"What trouble?" the girl's voice was toneless.

"I can't tell you."

"Then bring me the paper."

"No, no. Matron gave particular orders that you were not to see the paper—not on any account. No, I can't do that. You are asking me to give up my livelihood. I shall be thrown on the streets. No one would ever employ me again if I were to give you a paper against matron's orders."

Connie braced herself. Nothing that had happened on that dreadful afternoon when she had seen Donald's father murdered had subjected her to such a nervous strain as this. She

EVERYBODY!

YOU CAN WIN $3,500.00 IN CASH

HAVE YOUR MONEY IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS

This contest closes December 1. Prize winners will receive their awards before Christmas—in time for them to enjoy them to the full. There will be no endless chain of tie-breaking puzzles—when the contest closes, it will stay closed, once and for all. Winners will be selected strictly on the merits of their original answers and no one will be subjected to a series of monotonous elimination tests. Once you have sent in your answer you have nothing more to bother your head about. Enter this contest now, and have your prize money in time for Christmas.

Get a flying start---the stakes are worth trying hard for. You can't pick up $500.00 in the street; but simply by being prompt someone is going to win the extra $500.00 First Prize in The Atlanta Constitution's Airplane Puzzle Contest. You don't have to be clever to be prompt. Don't lose a minute! Perhaps yours will be the winning answer; and by wasting time you may be throwing away a perfectly good $500.00. Can you afford to delay? If $500.00 means anything to you, get busy ---NOW

Here Is the ORIGINAL Airplane Contest---

The first prize is $3,000. You can win it. No one has a better opportunity than you. Get into the ORIGINAL AIRPLANE TREASURE HUNT---and share the $7,500 Cash Treasure. This contest is ALL NEW, and is different from any previous puzzle competition ever conducted in the South. Prize winners in former Atlanta Constitution Puzzles may not enter, so that all competitors will have had practically the same experience. No unfair advantage of any kind is possible. And there is an extra cash prize of $500 for promptness---the first bonus of its kind to be offered in Atlanta.

This Contest Is Restricted To Legitimate Constitution Territory

The Airplane Treasure Hunt is open to residents of Georgia and adjoining states only. The Atlanta Constitution deems it unfair to accept answers from contestants outside the limits of its own legitimate territory. The object of this contest is to promote interest in The Constitution as a newspaper. Answers that come in from outside The Constitution's own territory are from people who can have no interest in this paper apart from the money they want to win, and who are in most cases experienced, expert, and often professional, puzzle workers. Unfair competition has been eliminated, and every entrant has the same opportunity of sharing the Cash Treasure. Find the TWO AIRPLANES on this page that are exactly alike. Two and only two are identical. To be sure, the 18 airplanes all look alike, but look closer. How about the propellers? Some are black and some white, and there are other differences, too. Only TWO Airplanes are exact duplicates. Can you find them?

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

offers an opportunity at this tremendous fortune to every man, woman and child—Join in the fascinating airplane Treasure Hunt—

Share In $7,500.00 Cash Prizes

Find the TWO airplanes that are exact duplicates. At first glance they all look alike; but upon closer examination you will see that almost every one differs in some way from all the others. The difference may be in the stripes on the tail; while some have white radiators and others black. How about their propellers? They aren't all alike, are they? And the stars on the wings are arranged in different ways, too—a black with a white, two whites, or two black ones, and so on.

Make sure you have found the TWO airplanes that are exact duplicates, then send in your answer. Someone who finds the right airplanes is going to win a lot of money. Make that "someone" be YOU!

CASH FIRST PRIZE, $3,000.00

Extra First Prize for Promptness, $500.00

You Can Win $3,500.00

Here's another great array of Cash Prizes offered by The Atlanta Constitution. That's what it is, folks—and you can be a winner. The prizes range from $1 to $35, and from $35 to $3,000.00, also an EXTRA FIRST PRIZE of $500.00 for Promptness. Yes, sir, YOU CAN WIN AS MUCH AS $3,500.00.

Think of it! A First Prize of $3,500.00. In all, $7,500.00 in Cash Prizes may be won in this interesting puzzle contest. The contest closes December 1st, and all prizes will be awarded in time to reach the winners by Christmas day. There will be 50 winners and the First Prize, the golden opportunity, is $3,000.00 plus $500.00, making a grand total of $3,500.00—IF YOU ACT QUICKLY.

If there is a tie for any prize, the full amount of the prize will be paid to each person so tied.

500 POINTS wins First Prize. We will give you 450 points for finding the TWO airplanes that are exactly alike. Promptly upon receipt of your answer, we will send you particulars of a magic word game, in which, if successful, you earn the final 50 points to win a $3,500.00 Cash Prize or one of the 49 other Cash Prizes.

Easy Rules

Any man, woman, boy or girl living in Georgia or adjoining states, who is not an employee of the Atlanta Constitution or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer.

When you have made your selection of the TWO airplanes that are exactly alike send in your answer. Study the pictures—Remember there are only two airplane pictures that are duplicates.

When you have found them, write the numbers in the coupon opposite, fill in your name and complete address and mail at once to the Puzzle Manager, The Atlanta Constitution. Promptness will mean a lot to you in this puzzle game.

If there is a tie for any prize, the full amount of the prize will be paid to each person so tied.

The whole family may cooperate in this competition, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group outside the family, where two or more have been working together.

There will be three independent judges, having no connection with The Constitution, who will judge the answers submitted and award the prizes in this competition. Participants by sending in their answer agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.

Here you are, folks—the big prize awards. The amounts you can win are shown in the table below.

FIFTY GRAND PRIZES

1st Prize	$3,000.00
2nd Prize	1,000.00
3rd Prize	1,000.00

Many Visitors Take Notes At Constitution Model Home

Of the tens of thousands who have visited The Constitution Model Home at Avondale Estates, it is remarkable how many have made notes, while inspecting the ideal residence and its perfect furnishings, evidently for their own future guidance in home-making, according to the officials who have been in attendance daily since the home was opened to the public nearly three weeks ago.

With an average attendance of 10,000 for the three Sundays, and many more during the week, it is conservatively estimated that the total number of visitors to the home now runs well over 40,000, yet there is no sign of any slackening in interest or in the number who come to see the place.

Built by Avondale Estates, under the direct supervision of Hoke N. Smith, contractor, and Raymond C. Snow, architect, the home embodies every possible convenience and beauty which

REV. MOOR TO SPEAK AT MASONIC CLUB

The Rev. N. R. H. Moor will be principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Atlanta Masonic club at 12:30 o'clock today at the Wincoff hotel. Ford Clark will furnish a special attraction. "Breaking the Mosaic," a musical program will be rendered by Dr. and Mrs. T. G. Fowler.

CHEST EFFECTIVE IN WELFARE WORK

Atlanta's social welfare work is administered more effectively and economically under the Community Chest plan than ever before that system was adopted, according to Horace Russell, president of the Family Welfare society, one of the chest agencies, in an address Tuesday before the Young Ladies' auxiliary of St. Philip's cathedral.

Mr. Russell spoke under auspices of the speakers' bureau of the chest campaign organization, which, under direction of E. Marvin Underwood, has undertaken to present the appeal and purpose of the Community Chest and its 35 associated agencies to representative Atlanta gatherings in interest of the forthcoming campaign for public support of the chest, which opens October 21.

said Mr. Russell, "is that the chest is supported by more than 30,000 people, where before only 5,000 people contributed to general charity, and the chest has secured for the helpless more than $100,000 a year more than has ever been secured for their aid prior to the days of the chest, and that our charity work under the chest is being done in an orderly, effective and a much more helpful manner than before the chest plan."

"The things that make us glad to give to charity through the chest are the joy of knowing that only the truly helpless of the community and the needy will receive the money, and that little children will be fed who otherwise would be overlooked, undernourished, and possibly die of starvation. The sick, helpless and broken adults, and families of the community are being found and administered to with our money. It is fine to know that a better job is being done and that while it is not perfect, few are being overlooked and not reached, when five years ago many were being overlooked and were starving."

"Do not believe that because we have one campaign instead of thirty odd, as formerly, each year, the suffering is not here. It is here. Many thousands of little children are dependent entirely upon our taking this matter to our hearts and paying cash money from our pocketbooks. Many incurables and old persons and delinquents of every kind are here and must be cared for. Thousands of little children have been helped during the past year and failure by 21 per cent to raise the chest's funds last year caused many of them to suffer. If I could stand a hundred of these undernourished children before you, their pale faces would produce the chest fund in full for the ensuing year."

BOBBY JONES SPEAKS AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

Bobby Jones, king of golf and most widely-known resident of Atlanta, delivered the principal talk at the regular meeting of the Atlanta Rotary club, Tuesday, in the Capital City club. The speaker was not permitted by his enthusiastic listeners to omit reference to his favorite pastime.

Musical entertainment on the program was furnished by a quartet from the Emory Glee club. The meeting was presided over by President Robert L. Foreman.

ESTATE OF DEAN TO REMAIN INTACT

Valuable Atlanta downtown business properties owned by the late H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, prominent lawyer and capitalist, in all probability will remain intact and will be administered by his heirs, it is understood.

Steps are expected to be taken within the next few days to administer the valuable estate, estimated at more than $1,000,000. The capitalist did not leave a will and it is anticipated that the courts will not be asked to take any action regarding administration of the estate, the business affairs being handled by agreement between the heirs.

GEORGIA TECH HAS 2,105 REGISTERED; NEW HIGH RECORD

Surpassing all enrollment records in the history of the institution, Georgia Tech already has a total registration of 2,105, it was learned from the registrar's office Tuesday. Still others are expected to add to the total enrollment within the next few days.

Representing the various classes, there are 738 freshmen, 435 sophomores, 291 juniors and 277 seniors. Of the different courses in the curriculum that of engineering remains the most popular, with a total of 790 students taking this work, of which 330 are freshmen. Students registered in the school of commerce number 364, while there are 520 cooperative students.

PAROLE BOARD CONSIDER CARROLL PLEA ON THURSDAY

The parole petition of Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, filed Tuesday with those of more than 125 other prisoners who become eligible for parole this month, may be considered at a special meeting of the federal prison parole board on Thursday, it was learned Tuesday afternoon.

Warden John W. Snook said that a special meeting of the board has been called for Thursday to consider the October parole petitions, and that Carroll's petition probably will be considered along with the rest of those filed this month.

Carroll was convicted on a charge of perjury growing out of the famous "bath tub" party, and was sentenced to a year and a day. He entered prison on June 8. Carroll is now serving as librarian at the prison "honorary farm."

Trio of Lovely Weddings Features Today's Calendar

Society's most cordial interest centers in a trio of lovely southern belles who will plight their troths at flower-decked altars today. Atlanta's exclusive circles will assemble in the name of Miss Eleanor O'Beirne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. O'Beirne, who will become the bride of Benjamin Charles Milner, the ceremony taking place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at All Saints' Episcopal church, followed by an informal reception at the O'Beirne home on Wesley road.

Taking place at 8 o'clock this evening in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Richmond, Va., will be another brilliant ceremony in which Atlantans are deeply interested and which will assemble a large and representative gathering of southern society. At this hour Miss Elizabeth Louise Brandon will wed John Howard Candler, Jr., son of Asa G. Candler, Jr., of Atlanta, this lovely bride-elect to become a notable addition to the city's social ranks.

A quiet ceremony taking place in New York city today, which attracts the interest and attention of a host of friends in the city, will be that uniting Miss Dorothy Hale, of Atlanta, and Frederick Link Sale, of Portland, Maine, the marriage to be solemnized at high noon in the Church of the Transfiguration and witnessed by a small group of intimate friends and members of the family connection.

Brides-elect, recent brides and attractive visitors will divide honors at a series of informal luncheons, teas, dinners and supper parties which fill today's calendar.

Mrs. Abercrombie Gives Breakfast Party.

Mrs. Jim Abercrombie was hostess at a breakfast party Sunday morning at Stone Mountain. Breakfast was cooked camp style at the foot of the mountain before the climb. Those present were Misses Olivia Herren, Marie McCalmon, Grace Ficken, Mable Abercrombie, Imogene Donehoo, Katherine Ficken, Martha Herren, Virginia Whitehead and Messrs. Joe Abercrombie, Steve Bonar, Maurice Abercrombie, Hugh Skinner, of El Dorado, Ark.; Stewart Blair, of Clearwater, Fla.; Johnny Crafkin, Gilbert Mobley and Mr. Brunetta McCalmon, Mrs. O. H. Herren, Mrs. G. W. Ficken, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Abercrombie.

Mrs. Abercrombie entertained at an informal dance Friday evening in honor of her son, Maurice, who has been in Knoxville, Tenn., for the past three months.

The guests were Misses Virginia Sims, Marie McCalmon, Virginia Whitehead, Martha Herren, Katherine Ficken, Alvia Herren, Grace Ficken, Imogene Donehoo, Mable Abercrombie, Messrs. Hugh Skinner, Joe Abercrombie, Horace Cantrell, Steve Bonar, Lewis Moody, Gilbert Mobley, Maurice Abercrombie, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Herren, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cottogim, Mrs. Brunetta McCalmon, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Abercrombie.

Saturday Matinee Is Announced.

"We're in the Navy Now," with Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery, the feature for the junior Saturday matinee, is full of thrills and hilarious moments that will delight both grown-ups and children. "Voices Across the Sea," an educational and interesting film furnished by the Southern Bell Telephone company, will be an added attraction. James Kennedy, a young versatile musician, will be heard on the French harmonica. Mr. Kennedy is a piano pupil of the Jemmie Tutt music school through whose courtesy he will appear.

Interest is running high in the attendance contest, with Kirkwood, Mrs. Paul Throver and Mrs. Tom Parks, chairmen, was the winning school last week, with an attendance of 85. Several schools came in groups of 15 and 20. Mrs. H. G. Parks, matinee chairman; Mrs. Moreton Rollstone, prologue chairman, and Mrs. J. G. Courtney, chaperon chairman, will be assisted by the Boy and Girl Scouts, and members of the P.T.A. division.

McLendon W. C. T. U. Meets Thursday.

The McLendon W. C. T. U. meets Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Trinity church. Mrs. H. H. Parnell will preside. Mrs. W. H. Anchors will present a program on "Fairs and Exhibits."

Randolph-Macon Club Meets.

The Randolph-Macon club was entertained Saturday afternoon by Misses Mary and Elizabeth Barnett at their home on Piedmont avenue. This was a special called meeting in honor of Miss Mary Stokes, general alumnae secretary, who was in the city attending the meeting of the American Alumni council. Miss Stokes gave a talk about the college and the changes that have taken place on the campus and among the faculty this year. She stated that the endowment had already reached a million dollars; and that if those who had already made pledges would pay up in full before February 1, 1928, that the college would receive a proportionate 50 per cent increase from the general educational board.

Mrs. Ben Hall, Jr., who is chairman of the program committee, announced that various phases of interior decorating would be studied this year, beginning with period furniture and certain subjects of practical use. At the conclusion of the program a social half-hour was enjoyed.

For Cheer and Comfort After A Trying Day

When everybody at the office has been particularly annoying—when that important deal failed to go through—when you had to work after hours to finish up—when the crowd on the trip going home was even more rude and jostling than usual—when you feel that if you don't get there soon you'll scream—

Then—Smiling faces of welcome—your own favorite deep-cushioned chair—dinner ready—with a steaming cup of deliciously blended RIDGWAYS TEA to take away the snarls from your mind, to cheer and soothe and refresh you, to bring you instant comfort and invigoration, to put you in just the right frame of mind for an evening of carefree fun and enjoyment.

RIDGWAYS—deliciously fragrant and perfectly blended tea can do that for you. Just you try it! On your way home this very day, stop at the corner grocer and get any one of Ridgways three delicious blends. You'll be delighted with the result—and so will the folks at home.

"The First Thing You Think of"— Ridgways Teas

THREE perfect blends to meet all demands: RIDGWAYS "Her Majesty's Blend"—originally blended for the special and private use of Queen Victoria of Great Britain.

RIDGWAYS "Gold Label" 100% Genuine Orange Pekoe Tea—The connoisseur's favorite—blend of the world's finest flowery Orange Pekoe teas.

RIDGWAYS "Orange Label" Tea—a fine, mild India-Ceylon tea—the most popular blend in the United States.—(adv.)

O'Beirne-Milner Wedding Party Is Entertained

Honoring the O'Beirne-Milner wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. O'Beirne entertained after the rehearsal Tuesday evening with a buffet supper at their home on Wesley road. Assisting Mrs. O'Beirne in entertaining were: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. O'Beirne, grandparents of the bride-elect, and Miss Mimi O'Beirne, her sister.

Miss Eleanor O'Beirne was charming in blue tulle made with tight waist and bouffant skirt with uneven hem line. She wore a corsage of red roses and violets.

Mrs. E. N. O'Beirne wore black velvet fashioned with tight bodice and full skirt.

Mrs. E. S. O'Beirne was lovely in a straight-line model of black satin and velvet.

Out-of-town guests were Mesdames Sam Milner, Willis Milner, of Asheville, N. C.; H. B. Edwards, of New Orleans, and Joseph Kennedy, of New Orleans.

Popular Vote Committee Is Announced.

Pryor Street Pre-School Circle Meeting.

The pre-school circle of Pryor Street school will meet Thursday, October 13, at 3 o'clock in the school auditorium. All mothers are urged to attend.

Pan-Hellenic Council To Give Luncheon.

A luncheon will be given by the Atlanta Pan-Hellenic council at 1 o'clock Friday October 14, at the Biltmore hotel ballroom.

The Pan-Hellenic, which has recently been reorganized in Atlanta, owes its new beginning to Mesdames John Turner, Evan Wood, E. H. Cone and Warren Humphrey.

At the initial meeting held last spring the Pan-Hellenic was voted to be only a social organization governed by an executive committee of five. Mrs. Fleming Law was elected chairman of this committee and Miss Mary Jimmie Pattillo, Miss Mary Steadwell, Mrs. John Winingham and Mrs. William Disbro her co-workers. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Law at Hemlock 1364-J.

Miss Mary Price To Wed Harold Harris, of Atlanta.

The marriage of Miss Mary Elder Price, popular bride-elect, and Harold Harris, of Atlanta, takes place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, south, in Chattanooga, Tenn. The Rev. L. L. Evans, assisted by Dr. T. S. McCallie, will officiate.

The wedding reception will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Harris on Creston circle, East Ridge, Saturday evening. Guests will include only the members of the wedding party, relatives and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Clarence Green and Mrs. Raymond White, of Atlanta, left Monday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harris and be present at the wedding. Mr. Harris and his cousin, T. L. Hollingsworth, who will serve in the wedding party, will go Thursday from Atlanta.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

AT ABOUT 2:30 P. M. (JULY 3, 1863), THE GREAT DUEL BETWEEN LEE'S AND MEADE'S ARTILLERY CEASED AND WORD WAS PASSED TO PICKETT'S WAITING TROOPS TO ASSAULT CEMETERY RIDGE. PICKETT'S SPLENDID FORCE, NEARLY 15,000 STRONG, STARTED TOWARD ITS GOAL AS STEADILY AS THOUGH ON PARADE. IT WAS THE MOST DRAMATIC EVENT OF THE WAR.

FOR THE FIRST QUARTER MILE, THE CONFEDERATE ADVANCE WAS SHELTERED BY SLOPE, BUT AS THE GRAY LINES, WAVE AFTER WAVE, SWEEPED OVER THE TOP, THE FEDERAL BATTERIES ON THE RIDGE AND ROUND TOP REOPENED WITH DEADLY EFFECT. GREAT GAPS WERE TORN IN THE RANKS, BUT THE LINE DID NOT FALTER.

Gettysburg—Pickett's Charge.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AS THE FAST-THINNING COLUMN DREW NEAR THE UNION LINES, GREAT MASSES OF FEDERAL INFANTRY, THAT HAD BEEN LYING DOWN BEHIND THE GUNS, NOW ROSE AND OPENED A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE, WHILE HANCOCK HURLED REGIMENTS UPON THE FLANKS OF THE ASSAILANTS. THROUGH THE SMOKE THE CHARGING CONFEDERATES STRUCK THE BLUE LINE.

LED BY ARMISTEAD, A HUNDRED BROKE THROUGH AND PLANTED THE "STARS AND BARS" OF THE CONFEDERACY UPON THE RIDGE. BUT NO HUMAN GALLANTRY COULD STAND AGAINST THE TERRIFIC FIRE THAT RAKED PICKETT'S BRAVE TROOPS. THE CONFEDERATE LINE WAVED, BROKE, AND THE SURVIVORS STREAMED BACK ACROSS THAT DEADLY PLAIN.

Rainy Weather Prevents Scouts From Scouting

Nashville, Tenn., October 11.—(AP)—Football scouts in southern circles Saturday had little to report on except the weather, if allegations of Vanderbilt "undercover men" are credited. John (Red) Floyd found the Texas university team wearing their 1926 jerseys and called in gumbo mud during their tilt with Trinity. Nevertheless he reported them a formidable outfit. The Commodores meet their first real test against them at Dallas Saturday, in their fourth non-conference game.

All Aie Sharpe claimed to be able to do at Birmingham was to measure the muddy foot prints left behind by Alabama and L. S. U. The chief detail was brought back from Georgia Tech by Lewis Hardage.

Many games were played on muddy fields Saturday and straight football was the rule. Dudley field here was damp but not soggy for the Centre masses, yet visiting scouts saw the Spears-Armistead combination in action only a part of one period.

'MYSTERY' GIRL SETS RECORD IN CHANNEL

Folkestone, England, October 11.—(AP)—The English channel swimming record for women, held by Gertrude Ederle at 14 hours, 31 minutes, today fell before Dorothy Cochrane Logan, London woman physician and "mystery" swimmer, who scrambled shore here this morning 13 hours and 10 minutes after taking off from Cape Gris Nez.

The time of her take-off from the coast of France was given as 7:49 p. m. yesterday while her arrival on the English shore was 8:50 a. m. today. As she walked ashore at Folkestone in the midst of a din of sirens and welcoming shouts, she collapsed and was taken to Hythe where she had been in training.

Dr. Logan, under the name "Mona McLellan," made the swim on her fifth attempt, her take-off at this late date of the channel season being inspired by word that Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, had conquered the channel a few days ago after six failures.

Although Dr. Logan's time was placed at one hour and 21 minutes better than that set by Gertrude Ederle when the latter became the first woman to cross the channel, her time was poorer than the channel record set by the Frenchman, George Michel, who made the crossing in 11 hours, 5 minutes, and the second place mark set by the German, Ernst Vierkötter, who crossed in 12 hours, 43 minutes.

"TRUDIE" READY TO TRY FOR MARK.

New York, October 11.—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English channel and whose time for that feat was lowered today by Dr. Dorothy Logan, said tonight that she is willing to try for a new channel mark.

"If the report is true," Miss Ederle said, "I wish to extend heartiest congratulations to Dr. Logan. I hope that some time in the future I will be able to give her the opportunity to break a new record."

Lipton Will Issue Challenge in 1929

Southampton, October 11.—(United News)—Sir Thomas Lipton, famous yachtsman, said definitely today, before sailing for the United States on the Levenham, that he would issue a challenge next year for a race in 1929 for the America cup.

Broadway Lure Halts Meeting Of Movie Men

New York, October 11.—(AP)—Exhibitor delegates to the movie trade practice conference charged today that fellow delegates, whose theaters compose the white ways of a hundred cities, have so fallen for the lure of Manhattan's great white way that they have no time left to attend the sessions.

Hard Scrimmage Slated for Yellow Jacket Squad Today

Long Signal Drill Held By Tornado

Tech Boys Put Through Hard Workout; Durant Is Back.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
If any member of the Tech football squad didn't know all the jacket plays before Tuesday's practice then that young gentleman should certainly know them at this point.

For Tuesday morning Coach Alexander spent practically two hours in running signals, in which every play in the jacket repertoire was gone over, time and again. It was a long signal drill, three varsity teams alternating in the affair, while the Devils of Hank Bjorkman kept to themselves at the upper end of the field and did not scrimmage against the varsity, as some people would have you believe.

May Scrimmage Today.
The Devils were busily practicing Alabama plays to be presented the varsity for that august body's edification, probably this afternoon. These same Devils were wearing their own blue jerseys and not the flaming red of Alabama. It was the second day that they have had on the Tide's plays and should—by now—know them well enough to give the varsity some inkling of the formations the Tuscaloosians will use on Grant field next Saturday afternoon.

The morning workout was occasioned by the fact that Tuesday was Lindbergh day in Atlanta and the famous trans-Atlantic flier was to address a large crowd at Grant field in the afternoon. Tech couldn't afford to miss working on the plans for Alabama day, Saturday next, and Alex assembled his boys at 10 o'clock and there was no let-up until 12:30.

Two of Alabama's best backs, Taylor and Hicks, according to reports, are out from injuries received in Saturday's tilt with L. S. U. However,

LITTLE SQUADS WILL MAKE BIG ONES TAKE NOTICE NOW

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
New York, October 11.—The defeats of the Harvard football team by Purdue and of the Yale team by Georgia, last Saturday, are bound to arouse some alarm and fault-seeking because there is a tradition that the big schools should not be defeated by the little schools. Of course, Purdue and Georgia are not exactly crossroads institutions, and the undergrads for several generations have been accustomed to wearing a badge to their classes, but for traditional purposes they are little schools, because tradition has it that the big ones play only little ones this early in the season.

In this connection and in anticipation of the alarm, it would be pertinent to inquire whether these early games are supposed to be contests or push-overs for the big schools. The ideals of intercollegiate football being what they are, I should think it would be more satisfactory to be beaten by a good team early in the season than to tramp all over a team selected solely because it couldn't defend itself. Naturally, the satisfaction is meager in either case. You cannot persuade a rooting body of students, or, for that matter, a crowd burning old Morris chairs, wicker hookcases and other inflammable rubbish in jubilation over a defeat at the hands of a good team, but I notice that they take their overwhelming victories over the little schools with equanimity.

Used Up Spares.
A young man who used to play football at Bowdoin college, which is up in Maine, and therefore handy to Harvard, tells me that in his football days the Bowdoin team once went down to Harvard for one of those early games with a squad of just 13 players. That left only two spares for Bowdoin, whereas Harvard had wealth of numbers, if not of talent.

"We used up our spares early in the game and we had to be very judicious about our substitutions," he related. "The Harvard boys are very robust, as you will notice when they are playing against them in the line, regardless of what you may have come to think by watching them play against Princeton. And after you have been spanked on the base of the brain half a dozen times you become mentally fatigued and your feet become confused, as happened to me. Of course, we spanked them back, but in addition to our general weariness, our hands became sore, so it was a most unequal contest. Every time I put my hands under me I chin and lifted my head up off my chest to see what was interrupting the sport. I would see an arm which Harvard team running out from the bench with new white bandages on their heads.

Heroes On Own Campus.
"Naturally Harvard defeated us by a very noticeable plurality, but a little school is usually able to find some security in the game which it serves as a moral victory, so we were heroes on our own campus because we had played Harvard with only 13 men. And still, I don't think there is anything wrong with the custom of playing the part of a set-up for a big school in this matter, because it's one sure way to get the name of your little school in the papers. If Harvard beats Bowdoin everybody hears about it, and consequently hears about Bowdoin, but if Bowdoin beats Upsala or Alfred or the Irritation academy, 106 to 3, the cigarette ad is a 50-to-1 shot to push the lineup and score by quarters right out through the bottom rule of the sport page."

On the part of the big schools it usually is claimed that an eight-game season against schools of equal football status would be too hard on the athletes, but, of course, this explanation were better left unspoken. The set-up theory presupposes extremely rough treatment for the little schools, some of which go through whole seasons taking them on the chin just to provide relaxation for the big ones. The occasional defeats of the big schools by the traditional little schools, and they are becoming more and more occasional, of late, would seem to be good for football, indicating that the schedule-makers are less eager for victories and synthetic prestige than for football for the sake of the game.

SARAZEN WINS METROPOLITAN PRO CROWN

Garden City, N. Y., October 11.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen won the Metropolitan Professional Golfers' association's championship today with a total of 292 strokes for the 72 holes of play over the Salisbury Country club course.

The doughty little professional of the Fresh Meadow Country club, Flushing, New York, turned back the challenge of Bobby Cruickshank, in the last 18 holes with a brilliant 71 after the Scot had drawn to even terms at the 54 hole mark with the aid of a 70, two under par. Cruickshank weakened under the strain of the long two days of play and took a 75 for the final round, finishing four strokes behind Sarazen in a tie with Willie Klein for third place.

Second honors went to Leo Diegel with a 295, three strokes behind the winner. Diegel's game was consistent and steady while Sarazen was more spectacular with his two 71's, one on the first round and the other on the fourth and last.

Fourth place was shared between MacDonald Smith, Lakewood veteran, and Charlie Mayo, both with 298. Finishing the first three rounds all even in 220, the two battled through the final round in 72. Two-day scores of the leaders:

Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow Country club, Flushing, New York, 73, 76, 74, 71—292.
Leo Diegel, Penmore Country club, White Plains, N. Y., 76, 74, 72, 73—295.
Bobby Cruickshank, Progress Country club, Purchase, N. Y., 75, 75, 72, 73—296.
Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills Golf club, East Williston, N. Y., 77, 72, 73, 74—296.
MacDonald Smith, Lakewood Golf and Country club, Great Neck, N. Y., 77, 73, 76, 72—298.
Charlie Mayo, Pomona Country club, Flushing, N. Y., 76, 73, 75, 72—298.
Joe Tuzness, defending champion, took a 311.

Change for Better Is Seen at Harvard

Close followers of eastern football are remarking that the presence of Bill Bingham, rather than better football material, may be one of the prime factors in replacing Harvard on the football map. Those who have visited the Cambridge campus and environs are outspoken in their praise for the good fellowship and hospitality Bingham is spreading after the "holier than thou" atmosphere which has prevailed in connection with the various activities for years. Arnold Horween, coach, is a democratic type as well. Both men seem to realize the value of popularity in connection with the promotion of athletics under modern conditions.

Berlenbach, Lohman Get Here Today

Abelson Announces Preliminaries for Thursday Night Fight Card.

Paul Berlenbach, New York scrapper who meets Joe Lohman in the main bout of a card to be presented at the auditorium Thursday night, will arrive this afternoon at the Terminal station.

Lohman is expected to arrive earlier in the day. In addition to announcing the approaching arrival of the two, Matchmaker Abelson revealed his preliminary card, which along with the main event makes up a program of 38 rounds.

K. O. Johnny Vickers, the Buckhead chair singer, is slated to meet Jimmy Hogan in an eight-round go. Vickers has shown considerable progress as a prizefighter. The Vickers bout ranks next to the ten-round semi-main event between Larry Averis and Spike Webb.

Prelim Bout.
In the six-round bout on the card Casey Jones tackles Happy Smith. Both are local pugilists. It should be a good fight.

Homer Reid and Battling Maddox will mix in the four-rounder on the program.

Jack Abel, former scrapper of some note, will referee the main event, while Jack Denham will officiate in all of the preliminary matches. Fat Elrod will wield the official megaphone. Tickets for the fight are on sale at Chess' Place and will be available there until a late hour Thursday afternoon, at which time the box office at the city auditorium will be opened for the purchase of general admission and reserved seat tickets.

Initial Appearance.

Berlenbach's appearance here, his first fight in the south, has attracted interest, not only in Atlanta, but nearby cities as well and, according to wire and mail reservations, a number of out-of-town cash customers will gather around the ringside Thursday night.

Berlenbach is in the midst of a comeback campaign, which he hopes will carry him back to the light-heavyweight championship, which he once held and which in the time that he reigned as monarch of the division netted him a small-sized fortune.

Probably.

According to interviews with managers of last place clubs their teams apparently were just practicing this year.

GLAD IT'S OVER

Babe Ruth and his wife and daughter, snapped in New York at the close of the world series, are happy the games have ended and are making plans for the winter. It was the Yankee star's eighth world series—and, as the Pittsburgh Pirates can certify, he's just as much a terror as ever.

Tom Loughran Signs With Tex Rickard

New York, October 11.—(United News.)—Tommy Loughran, recognized in New York state as the light-heavyweight champion of the world, has signed to defend that title against any suitable opponent named by Tex Rickard.

Sid Terris, who fouled Phil McGraw, of Detroit, at Ebbets field a week ago, has been indefinitely suspended by the New York boxing commission.

NORTHWESTERN SETS RECORD FOR GOALS FROM KICK-OFF

Three Consecutive Games Started in This Manner

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.
Has any football team in this fair land of ours ever set a record approaching that hung up by the University of Northwestern in scoring touchdowns from kickoffs?

Northwestern students and grads raise the query as they cite the unusual happenings in three consecutive games played by the team.

The discussion is prompted by the feat of Tiny Lewis in running 85 yards from the kickoff for the first score against the University of South Dakota in the first game of the current season.

Northwestern's final games of the 1926 season were with Chicago and Iowa. In each one of those games Northwestern opened the scoring by registering touchdowns on the opening kickoffs.

Three consecutive games then started by the scoring of touchdowns on the opening kickoffs!

It must be pointed out that the one scored against Iowa was called back because of the fact that both teams were off side, but this rule violation alone mars the performance.

Camel

The cigarette that earned first place by its goodness

The greatest endorsement ever given to a cigarette is revealed by the fact that Government figures show that more Camels are being smoked today than ever before. An endorsement by the many—not the few.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

Gehrig Voted Most Valuable Player in American League

Columbia Lou Leads Field By Big Vote

Bob Reeves, Former Tech Star, Receives 7 Votes in Election.

Chicago, October 11.—(AP)—"Lar-ruping Lou" Gehrig, first baseman with the world champion Yankees, tonight was proclaimed the most valuable player in the American league for the 1927 season.

Selection of Gehrig, who gave "Babe" Ruth a sizzling battle for home runs and finished with a total of 47, more than any other player in baseball history with the exception of the Bambino himself, was made by a committee of baseball writers comprising the cities of the league. All but one of the first choice votes were given to Gehrig, who won the coveted honors with 56 points out of a possible 64.

Heilmann Is Second.

Gehrig's nearest competitors for the honors were Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder and 1927 batting champion of the American league, and Ted Lyons, star pitcher with the Chicago White Sox. Heilmann had 35 points while 24 went to Lyons.

The only dissenting vote was cast for Tony Lazzeri as the most valuable player to the Yankees, while all the others chose "Columbia Lou," not only as the most valuable player to Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, but the greatest in the league.

Twenty-five players were named in this year's competition.

President Ban Johnson, of the American league, in announcing the results of the balloting, praised Gehrig as a great example for the youth of today. Gehrig causes umpires no trouble, President Johnson said, tending strictly to business and has always given his club his best efforts.

Gehrig, finishing third in the balloting list of leading American league hitters, closed the season with the honor of driving in more runs than any other player in the league. In 154 games, Gehrig was at bat 584 times. He made 218 hits for a total of 427 bases. These included 52 doubles, 18 triples and his 47 homers. He drove in 175 runs, averaging better than a run a game. Gehrig is regarded as a "natural" ball player. His terrific hitting was the most important thing in his favor in compiling the vote of the committee in his favor.

Started in High School.

Gehrig, born in New York, June 19, 1903, began his baseball career with the Brooklyn High school. He joined the Yankees in 1925, and was later sent to Hartford. He returned to the New York club the following year in time to play in the last ten games of the 1924 season. When the veteran Wally Pipp retired, Gehrig, who had been Pipp's understudy, became the guardian of first base.

Stocky built and somewhat shorter than Ruth, Gehrig follows through in batting with the same powerful swing that enabled the Babe to set a baseball record of all times with his 60 home runs.

Gehrig's name in the American league's hall of fame adds to the list which began with Ty Cobb in 1911.

HONORED

The above gentleman is Columbia Lou Gehrig, who was voted the most valuable player in the American league Tuesday night by a committee of baseball writers comprising the cities on the circuit. Lou's all-around playing ability and home-run hitting won him this high honor and a place in the hall of fame.

Taylor Is Matched For Title Fight

Chicago, October 11.—(AP)—Promoter Jim Mullen tonight matched Bud Taylor, generally recognized as the world's bantamweight champion, and Archie Bell, of New York, for a 10-round contest involving the title here November 19.

Bel recently returned from a campaign in England. He is rated as one of the outstanding challengers for the 115-pound title.

Pitcher Sold.

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—Hollis Thurston, pitcher obtained by the Washington baseball club from the Chicago White Sox last winter, has been sold to the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league.

President Griffith, of the Senators, in announcing the sale, did not mention the price. Thurston's record with the local club the past season was 13 victories and 13 defeats in 29 games.

Ruth was the choice in 1923. Walter Johnson in 1924. Roger Peckinpaugh in 1925, and George Burns in 1926.

The result of the balloting for this season's award follows:

PLAYER, CLUB, POSITION, Points

Harry Lou Gehrig, New York, infield, 56
Harry Heilmann, Detroit, outfield, 35
Ted Lyons, Chicago, pitcher, 24

Red and Black Squad Starts Daily Grind

Lautzenhiser Returns to Bulldog Lineup After Illness.

BY BOB SHERROD.

Athens, Ga., October 11.—Georgia's Bulldogs resumed their active work here Tuesday in preparation for the coming conflict on Saturday with the Purple Hurricane of Furman university.

The conquerors of Yale were not given any let-down as a result of their Saturday victory and the week's work will be strenuous and exacting, according to Coach Woodruff.

Scrimmages will be held again on Wednesday as well as Thursday.

The return of Glenn Lautzenhiser to practice is indeed good news to Georgia supporters. This husky tackle, who has not been able to participate in any active work on account of an operation this summer, took part in his first scrimmage Tuesday and it looks as though he will be as good as ever this year. The addition of Lautzenhiser to the squad is expected to bolster up the tackle position a great deal.

We are expecting a hard battle with Furman Saturday, Coach Woodruff said Tuesday afternoon. "I believe these South Carolinians have one of the best teams in the south," Coach Crowley, who has charge of the backfield department of the Red and Black, says that Furman undoubtedly has a better team than last year, when they downed the Bulldogs two touchdowns to one. Crowley scouted the Furmanites in their first battle of the season.

An annoying rain hindered the progress of Tuesday's scrimmage. Only one varsity team took part in the tussle with the freshmen. This varsity team, composed of Buchanan, center; Greenfield and Haley, guards; Morris, Stelling and Lautzenhiser, tackles; Collins and Martins, ends; Paris, quarterback; Cook and Hill, halves, and Cox, fullback, had little trouble in pushing the frosh around the field and likewise in holding them with little or no gain.

Two other varsity teams ran signals, while the Red Devils were learning the Furman formations under the tutelage of Coaches Stegeman and Kilpatrick.

Unquestionably the game that saw more cash change hands than any other southern encounter and which will likely stand as a record for years to come was the memorable Centre-Tech game of 1920. One commission place in this city held between $400 and $63,000 on the outcome of that game.

For genuine color, pre-game thrills and advance excitement that game probably held the record. The players below the Mason-Dixon line. And it might be added that no game was ever less exciting or had fewer dramatic moments under the lights of Centre-Tech.

Way, Tech, although possessing a wonderful team, entered that affair at the short end of the betting. This was due to the sensational reports of Centre's greatness and the fact that the little Kentucky college had just beaten Harvard. Once the game was over, however, the betting was not so one-sided. Centre was not a two-to-one favorite, as there was no comparison to the way in which the two teams performed.

Both Renault and Delaney have hit the down trail since those days, and now both are bent on coming back.

Delaney was beaten by Jimmy Maloney, the roly-poly Boston fish-monger, and was losing to Paulino, the Basque, when saved by a foul. Renault grew fat and slovenly and was an easy victim for Jack Sharkey and George Goldfry.

Now this pair may be considered the first of the heavyweight elimination bouts of the indoor season. Each has a long way to go before reaching the top, but each has been so close to the peak that he knows what championship fighting is about.

Renault, weighing close to 200, will have a considerable weight advantage over Delaney, but if Bridgeport Jack is in shape that will not trouble him. Delaney, having proved himself an "in-and-out" is due to be "in" for the occasion.

Seems So.

There's a lot of money ahead of Dempsey yet, says Tex Rickard. After looking at his last two ring purses we'd say there was a lot of money right with him now.

OLD COLLEGE SPIRIT LACKING IN PRESENT DAY GRIDIRON CLASSICS

BY WHITNER CARY.

Have the boys lost their chance-taking habits of other seasons, has football being become so tough that it is too venturesome a sport in which to risk one's hard-earned savings, or have the speculatively inclined brethren taken the veil and joined the reform chorus?

The writer is unable to answer. But the fact stands out that the boys who used to go way down in their jeans just prior to a football game and bring out the long green to wager on their favorite team's chances on the gridiron have become suddenly very scarce.

May Bring Split.

Maybe the Tech-Alabama game will put an end to this seeming wave of purity and conservatism that has swept over us, but if conditions remain the same, the boys who used to bet on the Crismon Tide and Golden Tornado will gallop on the gridiron with very little cash backing their team.

The opening of the season saw a few of the speculative gentry come out of their holes and wager a little on the Tech-V. M. If argument. But in very meager amounts. Tech, Fuli favorite in that contest with the V. M. J. backers being given from 10 to 14 points. Evidently that game excited the boys, for they were gambling instinct the boys possessed, for when Tulane and the Tornado waltzed on grand field there was even less money wagered than on the opening encounter.

An old commission man in this city who has followed football betting for many seasons told this writer that never in his experience has there been as little speculation as has taken place up to this time.

It may be that the Tech-Alabama game Saturday will bring out some as in days gone by. This game, with the exception of the Tech-Georgia game, carried the biggest load of speculation during the season. As a general rule the boys take the hand off the old roll when the Tide hits town. But even this game will hardly produce the betting that some of the games a few years back brought out.

Much Betting.

Unquestionably the game that saw more cash change hands than any other southern encounter and which will likely stand as a record for years to come was the memorable Centre-Tech game of 1920. One commission place in this city held between $400 and $63,000 on the outcome of that game.

'Bama Works Hard for Tech Tilt Saturday

Two Crimson Backs, Taylor and Hicks are Still on Injured List.

University, Ala., October 11.—Coach Wallace Wade is losing no time in getting his men ready for the Tech game Saturday in Atlanta. He had them hard at work this week, scrimmaging the freshmen and hitting the dummy.

The dummy has been getting its share of attendance, as Wade was not pleased with his team's blocking and tackling in the L. S. U. game and he had them working hard at the dummy and also in man-to-man practice.

The Tide has been known as the team that blocked its way into a national championship, and for it to show up so poorly as on Saturday in the blocking and tackling departments did not go over so well.

Bradfield, Brown, Holm and McClintock are all in good shape and ready for the game, but Hicks is still out and also Taylor.

How long Taylor will be out is not known yet. He was walking around this afternoon watching the practice, but not in uniform. Tuck has been showing an mighty well in the scrimmages held this week. Tuck is a new man and the stands will probably see more and hear more about him after the Tech game.

There are a number of reserve backs available but none to compare with Taylor and Hicks. The line is in good shape and should go good Saturday. The game will be a good battle, as two of the best lines in the south met and what will happen remains to be seen.

The ends of the Tide have that situation well in hand at present but when the speedy Henry, Randolph, Thomson and Mitchell start around them something else is liable to happen.

Desperate training prevails at the Chicago camp, where the Maroons are perfecting strategy to stop the new conference star, Ralph Welch, of Purdue, who is rapidly becoming known as "the yellow peril." Welch's "egg" is in fair way to become as famous as "Red" Grange's "77" if the powerful Texan can fulfill the promise of his collegiate debut against Harvard. He will be without the assistance of Captain Cotton Wilcox, who still limps around on crutches with a splinted ankle.

Another McGraw-Terris Embroglio Suggested

The sudden ending of the recent Terris-McGraw bout by a foul delivered by Terris has caused friends of both boxers to urge another meeting of the pair. This despite the fact that neither one of the two bouts to date have been satisfactory affairs.

Another Dumb One.

The office stenog is so dumb she calls soccer a game where everybody tries to get a headache.

Wins Title

Mrs. Helen Payson, of Portland, Maine, has won the Duchess of Cornwall's gold cup, emblematic of the Canadian women's golf championship, defeating Miss Fritzi Sifal of Wheeling, W. Va., in the final match at Toronto, Ont. It is the first time since 1924 the trophy has come to the United States.

Shooting will begin at 9:30 in the morning and will continue all day. Below is given an unofficial classification of the local shooters who will take part. This classification was not based on A. T. A. average alone, but was arrived at through scores made at singles, doubles and handicap.

One Day Shoot Will Be Held Here Friday

Peachtree Club To Hold Gold Medal Meet Last of Week.

The Peachtree Gun club takes its football along with a slight dash of shooting. All of which means that the boys who blaze away at the clay targets out at that club have arranged a big one-day gold medal shoot for Friday, October 14, the day preceding the hectic battle on Grant field between Tech and Alabama. As there will be many visiting shooters here for that game, there is every reason to believe that the coming one-day target busting contest will be well attended by outsiders.

All the local crack powder burners will be present and in addition there will be many who are just beginning to shoot. To accommodate this bunch and to make the event interesting, the program for the class events contains a fifth, or E class, to which all these beginners can compete.

Will Begin at 9:30.

Shooting will begin at 9:30 in the morning and will continue all day. Below is given an unofficial classification of the local shooters who will take part. This classification was not based on A. T. A. average alone, but was arrived at through scores made at singles, doubles and handicap.

share shares are being accumulated, according to gossip the companies are planning to announce a stock split. The companies are also planning for taking care of the $16 back dividends on the cumulative preferred stock. With these back dividends out of the way it would be possible to make a stock split on a common basis. For 1926 Missouri Pacific earned after fixed interest charges enough to pay 5 1/2 percent on the preferred stock and $6.00 on the common stock. In 1927 this surplus was 10 1/2 percent on the common after allowing for the preferred dividend.

Not Farsighted.

It must be admitted that there is something in this argument of the bankers. A banker, however, is not farsighted because of his special training but because he is able to look further into the future than the average business man. The average business man is not farsighted because his money is not his own. He is supposed to be more conservative. But does not appear that bankers have been very farsighted in handling the money of the public. The fact is according to the latest monthly fig-

FEDERAL TROOPS PURSUING GOMEZ

Rebels May Seize Mexican Oil Fields

New York, October 11.—(AP)—The New York American will say tomorrow that a radio message from General Antonio Gomez, chief of staff to General Arnulfo Gomez, to Martinez de la Torre, at Vera Cruz, reports that the battle between federal and insurgent forces Sunday evening ended in a draw and that the rebel troops are advancing to obtain control of the oil fields.

BY G. F. FINE.

Mexico City, October 11.—With the Mexican revolution broken by one decisive battle, government troops are pursuing General Arnulfo Gomez, and 20 followers, and scattering bands of other rebels who fled into the mountains after the disastrous rebel defeat near Ayahuatlan.

"The rebellion is completely crushed," Minister of War Amaro announced today. "I would not dignify it with the name revolution."

Information received at Chapultepec castle, where the government's official dispatches are given out, said additional bands of rebels have surrendered, reducing the broken rebel forces to a few handfuls.

President Calles said he thought Gomez was likely to remain in hiding in the mountains, rather than risk a dash to the sea and safety.

Longer Term for President.

Shortly after the government announced Monday that 3,000 federal troops under General Gonzalo Escobar had surprised 1,000 rebels in command of General Gomez and Hector Almada and had routed them, a proposal to increase the presidential term from four to six years passed its first reading in the Mexican senate.

Forty-three senators signified their willingness to support the measure, which also would increase the terms of senators and deputies to six years.

A few weeks ago a proposal was discussed whereby the life of the president would be extended to two years.

The rebels met defeat in the state of Vera Cruz Sunday. The federal forces came upon the joint Gomez-Almada forces from five sides, capturing between 500 and 600 troops, according to the government announcement.

Some 500 rebels were killed, while 100 were wounded. Federal casualties were light.

STING OF WASP BRINGS FAMILY CLOSE TO DEATH

Middletown, N. Y., October 11.—While driving near Middletown, N. Y., on his ankle and lost control of his car just as he was approaching a bridge over a railroad track.

The driver, who was not named, was killed, and his family escaped without a scratch. Then just as they climbed out of their car—which was not damaged much—they heard a whistle and a moment later a train plowed through the automobile.

QUICK TRIAL SEEN IN CASE OF REMUS

Cincinnati, Ohio, October 11.—(AP)—While George Remus worked steadily over plans for his defense today, a coroner's verdict fixed responsibility upon him for the death of his wife, Mrs. Ingeborg Holmes Remus, and a grand jury moved toward an indictment.

At the request of Remus, a police order was issued banning visitors from his cell to enable him to proceed uninterrupted over details of the defense he will make against the first degree murder charge.

The coroner's verdict read that "Mrs. Remus died from a bullet wound inflicted by George Remus."

The grand jury began its deliberations into the Remus case shortly after completing its organization today. Twenty-four witnesses, including Ruth Remus, who was with her mother at the time of the shooting, Mrs. J. W. Brown, mother of Mrs. Remus; Charles Stevens, who drove Mrs. Remus' taxicab; Evander Ranslow, who took Mrs. Remus to the hospital; and Detective Chief Emmett Kirgwood, were called.

The other grand jury witnesses were persons who saw the shooting or had other knowledge of the case. Chester Shock stated that Mrs. Remus' taxicab was driven by Mrs. Remus' taxicab; Evander Ranslow, who took Mrs. Remus to the hospital; and Detective Chief Emmett Kirgwood, were called.

inferior to many others in the business, the former government operative said.

"He thought I had influence with high officials and could secure immunity for him. When his plan failed, he became incensed and the next thing I knew I was named in his divorce cross bill."

At one time there was an attempt to settle the divorce case, Dodge asserted, but the Remus family refused because his wife would not agree to a division that would have given Remus practically all of the property.

The scope of Remus' operations was much exaggerated and estimated his wealth at less than $1,000,000, instead of the reputed $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

ROPER DIES AS SECOND VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH

David E. Roper, 60, of 1070 Wylie street, the second pedestrian victim to die as the result of the mishap last Saturday in which three motorists were killed, was struck by a truck that skidded to the side-walk after a collision, lingered near death at the Grady hospital until early Tuesday morning, and then died.

His wife died shortly after the accident, which occurred at the intersection of Wylie and Wallhall streets, when Mrs. Roper, with their daughter, Mrs. L. M. Teems, were en route to the South-eastern fair.

Roper suffered a fractured skull. Her husband was injured internally, while Mrs. Teems sustained minor injuries. Following the accident, Farland and Marcus Roper, of Knoxville, Tenn., sons of Mr. Roper, were notified of the critical condition of their parents and rushed home to be at the bedside of their father.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Roper will probably be held Thursday at Alpharetta, Ga., where the bodies are to be taken today.

In addition to Mrs. Teems and the two sons from Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Roper are survived by another daughter, Mrs. J. O. Roe, of Alpharetta, and another son, Otis V. Roper, of Atlanta.

The drivers involved in the crash, C. M. Mathis, of 112 DeKalb avenue, and a driver of a 1931 Buick sedan, were taken to police headquarters under blanket charges of suspicion.

SPAFFORD LAUDS LEGION CONDUCT

New York, October 11.—(AP)—Edward E. Spafford, new national commander of the American Legion, with 1,300 legionnaires from New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, returned today on the liner Carmania from the legion convention at Paris.

In an official statement, the new commander lauded the legionnaires as the finest ambassadors of peace ever sent from one nation to another. Their behavior in Paris, he declared, fully deserved General Pershing's tribute of the legion as the "soul of the A. E. F."

Spafford expressed his pleasure at the ovation given the legion in France and voiced his pride in having been named to head the organization. He said no official word had come to him of excessive rates charged by legionnaires at Paris hotels and ridiculed charges that increased tariffs collected by hotelmen had been used to finance entertainment of high officers of the legion. A committee has been appointed, he said, to sift all charges of profiteering.

Spafford declared one of his chief projects for the coming year will be the organization of a national basis of community relief work conducted by many individual legionnaires. In the event of a national disaster such as the Mississippi floods, he pointed out, the legion could serve as a unit rather than as an organization of local posts.

WILLIAMS ARRESTED IN TINSLEY SLAYING

Blakely, Ga., October 11.—(AP)—Don Williams, who was being sought by Early county officers on a murder warrant in connection with the slaying of J. J. Tinsley, 33, who was found slashed to death on the steps of his home here Saturday night, was taken into custody by Decatur county officers today. The accused man was turned over to Deputy Sheriff J. Howell. He was brought here and confined in the county jail.

Bill Brownlow, who is also implicated in the slaying, was arrested the day following the slaying. No motive for the killing has been assigned by the officers and both prisoners refuse to make a statement.

Tinsley was killed while he was leaving home for Dawson to bring his wife and family back after a visit there.

The accused men had called on Tinsley in regard to an automobile trade and, it is said, an argument ensued with the slaying following.

Domestic Coal

For that reason, we have always maintained that it is our duty as coal merchants to carefully analyze and test every brand of coal we sell, before offering it to the public.

Unless it comes up to our rigid standard of heat-unit quality, it is not good enough for you.

Such exactness on our part costs the customer not a penny more.
